BLACK AND ORANGE

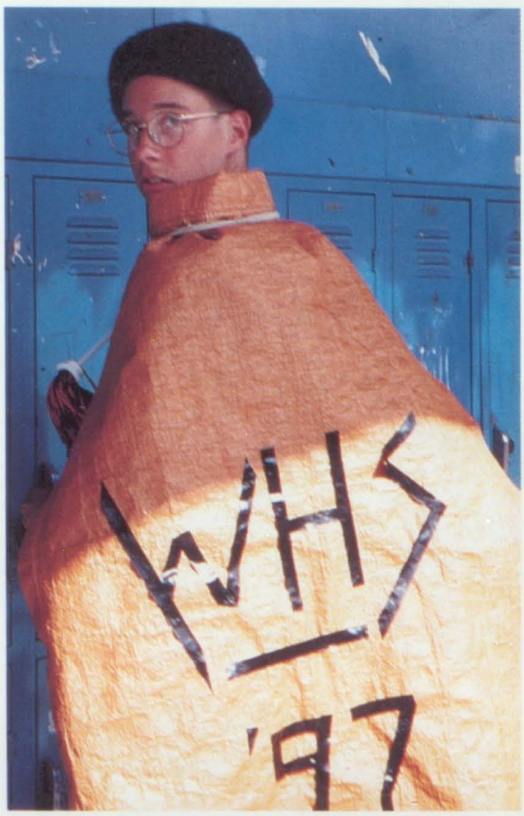
Sarah Snow and Joby Sandoval show their Freshmen spirit.



Who is this caped crusader? Senior Peter Orsi proudly displays his school spirit.

The Juniors rally down the halls with an enormous sign and the clanging of a trash can lid.

Sophomores shout their enthusiasm on the final spirit day.

1991 means the start of a new generation, yet not new traditions. As with every previous year, Black and Orange day wrapped up an exciting week of festivities and costumes. There's no better way to end a week of friendly competition than to bring all four classes together to unite as one. Black and Orange day radiated spirit as Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors painted their faces, hair, and clothing the vibrant colors of our historic school.

As 6th period rolled around Friday bringing an end to Spirit Week and all its fun, we were already missing the excitement and thrills. But the good times we had with our friends the past week - yelling and cheering on our class - will be with us always.

Beaming with Husky pride, Juniors Lisa Corrie and Candy Gomes are a perfect picture of spirit.

Staci Ennis, Connie Bellmer, Ann-Marie Beagles, Karin Hartkamp, Felicia Fierro, Vanessa Marchis, Stacey Hudspeth, Arinn Stahler, Geneva Boutoun-Scott, and Carrie Miller show their pride in Washington High School.

Sophomores Mindy Lynch, Christi Haro, Elena Matallana, Jill Rennels, and Katie Frazier display the pride of the Black and the Orange as Spirit Week comes to an end.

Senior Julie Porter is awestruck at the amount of school spirit that Washington has.

LUNCH

Having donned their ceremonial Galactic Emperor crowns, Erin Todd, Erinn Kearney, and Brit Lewis prepare for warp drive into the Burger Zone.

Ethan Wimert is all smiles as he eats his cake on his 17th birthday.

Serving food for the masses is never an easy job, especially with a hungry Aaron Walker.

A rare photograph of Pinki Prasad caught in the act of trying to eat a banana whole.

Lunch, that magical time when we pause from the learning process to shovel food into our faces. For some, lunch means a greasy burger at fast food. Others stay at school to play the game of Cafeteria roulette and see if the food is actually hot. Brown baggers play it safe with the food they brought from home. Sometimes lunch means getting that fifth period homework done before the bell rings. The good thing about hearing the bell is knowing that you only have two periods left.

Top Ten Rejected New Food Items at Carl's Jr.

10 Hickory Smoked Squid
9 Grilled Veggie Mush
8 Bucket O' Beef
7 Carl Sr.
6 Charbroiled Naval Lint
5 Stuff-found-under-the-frier Sandwich
4 Liverwurst, Garlic, and Onion Burrito
3 Mop Water Shake
2 Seaweed Salad with "It was a rough night" Sauce
1 Eggplant Suprise!

Otis Rochelle, Robert Dizon, Chris Hodges, Shane Keith, Tavares Turner, Jason Miller, and Nasrat Latifzadah pose for a picture before going back to school.

Glen Watt, the notorious popcorn outlaw, stalks his next victim as his sidekick Jay Poulsen, the burrito bandit, shows off his weapon.

Thomas Audas dines on an exotic delicacy consisting of sliced apples baked in a delicious pastry shell at Chez Burger King.

A typical school lunch containing various items from unknown plant and animal kingdoms.

Nicole Doren, Adrienne Tong, Joanne Stellini, Michelle Doren, Jody King, Brandi Presly, Minerva Grary, and Corinna Schmidt form a cleverly placed roadblock in Senior Hall.

WORK FORCE

Here we see Jason Ramos making a sign at his job.

Pricing and folding placemats is Gina Woodfield. She works as a cashier for Home Express.

Working behind the counter of Cookie Gourmet at the mall, we see Christina Sandoval cleaning cookie sheets.

The summer comes to an end and so does the decision of whether or not you should keep that summer job. Many students figure if they keep their jobs, they'll have extra spending money for all the year's activities.

Also there are times when social affairs slow down and weekends get weary and long. Going to work becomes a solution to the couch potato syndrome and a source of income. Besides, why sit at home bored when you could be out there gaining life experiences and making money?

According to seniors Lisa Fox and Kim Noble, they work for the money doing approximately 20 hours a week. But along with the money, Kim took up a job because it was requirement for her Fashion Merchandising class.

In the New Park Mall's Sunshine Station you'll find Sandra Rogers greet customers with a smile.

Putting up the new fall fashions for Miller's Outpost is Susan Galotta.

At Emporium Capwells, you'll find Kim Noble patiently waiting on customers behind the accessorie counters.

Who says there's no future in working at McDonald's? Senior Sumeet Syal has moved up to the position of manager and is doing a great job.

HALLOWEEN

Who is that masked pumpkinhead? It's Mike Winterstein, getting acquainted with Mr. Springer's pumpkin, winner of the Halloween pumpkin carving contest.

Aimee Shores in her prize-winning Marilyn Monroe disguise, shows us that Hollywood stars need their nutrition too!

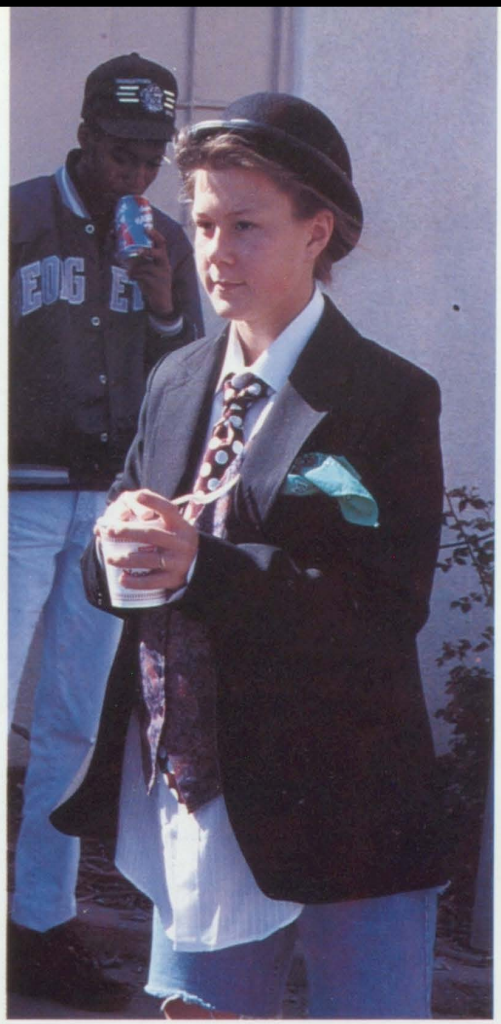
What makes Halloween an extra special occasion around Washington High School? Why, it's the theme colors of course! What other holiday is represented by orange and black? We're the only school in town that can display Halloween and our Husky spirit at the same time.

Halloween is the perfect time for Washington students to express their creativity. A walk around the campus on October 31 allows you to see a huge variety of costumes. Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors all participate, uniting the school as a whole. Costumes range from the traditional ghost to those beyond description. It is a perfect time for the students to express their individuality and at the same time, become more unified with their fellow Washington students.

So, next October, when you see orange pumpkins and black cats, think not only of Halloween, but also of our school colors and spirit of a different kind.

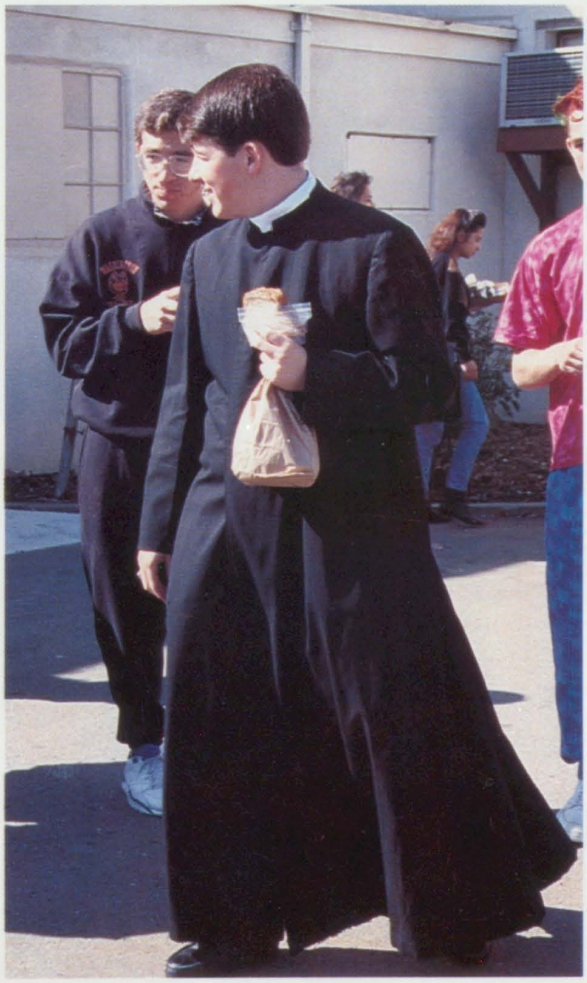
No, this isn't what Erin Webb, Michelle Beck, and Sally Coffman look like in the morning. It's what they look like on Halloween.

Avis Lindeman gets into the spirit with a neat get-up of her own.



Preparing to dig into her hot cup of noodles is the hungry hobo, Jamie Britto.

Mike Hauptly invites you to join the young nurse club at W.H.S.! Actually, he's just showing off his imaginative Halloween costume.



The leopard, Freshman Michelle Baxter, prepares to strike her prey, eh, I mean her lunch.

Co-winner of the costume contest, Father Bryan Gebhardt models his nifty outfit at lunch in front of the Student Center.

NOON ACTIVITIES

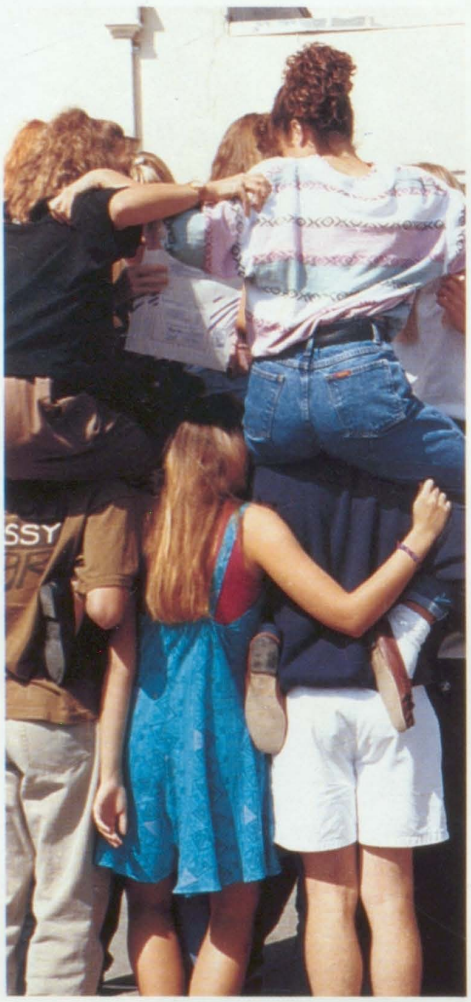
Juniors Jody Phelps and Senior Sancho Martinez show Trisha Wong just how fast they can suck up watermelon!

A tiny group of Freshmen huddle together in another fruitless effort to win a lunchtime game!

Senior Brian Snow tells us what he thinks of David McCoy's hat as Will Raby and John Dujmovic look on!

Boy this is yummy exclaims Chris Sandoval as he loses his Alka-Seltzer and Coke!



Besides just eating lunch at noon we had the privilege of participating in the tons of games planned by student council. From the beginning Hard Hat Rallies to the Powderpuff Rally at the end of the year everyone got a chance to come out and cheer for Washington. The fact that there was no gym to hold the rallies in didn't seem to affect our plans to have fun as we moved the activities to the front of the Student Center. There were games held between classes where everyone ran in hoping to win. We even had some memorable rallies where we got syked up for the upcoming games! All these activities seemed to bring out the Husky in all of us!

DRIVING

Mark Beretta displays his decked out Volkswagon Bug, not an unusual sight at Washington!

Geoff Svendsguard and Sean Flannagan give their best studly looks as they wait oh so patiently to get out of the parking lot!

Here's one of the perfect examples of the brilliant engineering at Washington High as we see our short and convenient exit (Yeah Right!)!

To parents driving means running for cover, but for us we all think the same thing, FREEDOM! After filling out a form saying you'll be oh so careful when driving (yeah right!) and having the principals watch you like a hawk as you place your sticker proudly on your car you finally have gained the privilege to park in the parking lot. And unbenounced to all is the patience one must have to park in the school's parking lot. Trying to get out of the parking lot after school is an experience no one forgets because it seems that they wait forever trying to leave campus. Some rush off to practice, others to work and still some to the nearest Taco Bell having nothing to look forward to but homework and another sleepless night.

FUNNY FACES

While attending Yearbook camp at U.C. Santa Barbara, Jason Chen is pleasantly surprised by the photographic maniac Samir Patel.

"Help! Someone get me out of these handcuffs!" cries Senior George Kralovansky desperately.

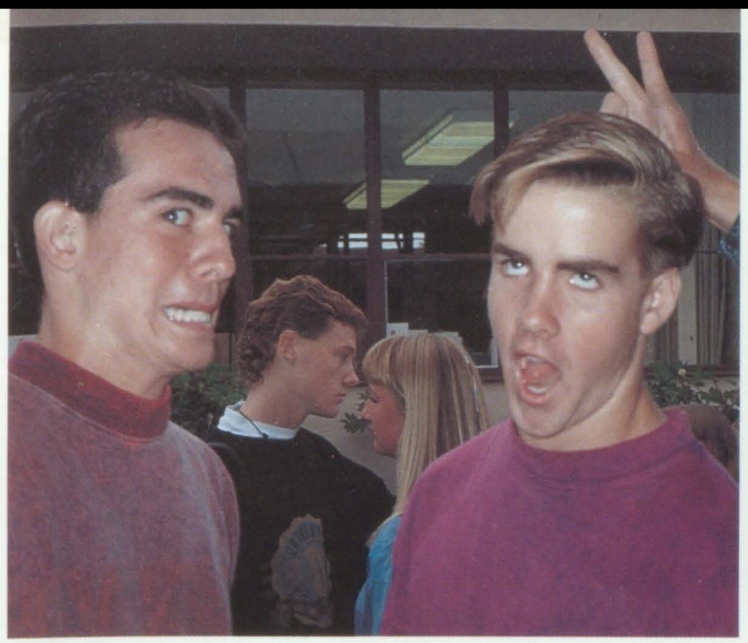
Senior Jen Damas checks for the under-the-bed monster before going to sleep. Sweet dreams . . .

Senior Angela McEwen imitates the school mascot, Hank the Husky.

Students here at Washington will always be a generation of the 90's . . . from Mr. Husky to the new and improved gym, our fellow Huskies are a part of the new era.

Many can recall when our spirits were low, there were always people that would come up to you and make you laugh or how about when you got up in the morning and said to yourself, "Can I make a funny face that would cheer someone up?"

For most of us, things like that don't come into our minds . . . but we always have that special and unique way of expressing the way we feel. No matter what kinds of expressions we have on our faces, it's school spirit that goes way beyond our wildest imagination!



Juniors Brian Gelfuso and Jason Colon avert their eyes as Daniel Southworth and Shelly Twist slow dance in the background.

"Mr. Bredahl just drives me wild when he does Trigonometry problems on the board!" exclaims Junior Rachel Sanchez.

"What do you call seven blonds in a circle?" inquire Seniors Angela Burns, Angelique Walsh, Lisa Olson, Tracy Jackson, Jennifer Britto, Leslie Wilkerson, and Ami Windes.

No, Rene Rogers and Kaye Audas, you CAN'T pull your mouth behind your head.

Please don't torment, tease, annoy, or irritate Brian McFeely, a main attraction at Washington High. He has been known to chase after small children. Feel free to feed him a Chiquita banana, but be wary of the fingers.

Off to prove that Freshmen have more fun are Shashanna Tidwell, Bridget Howe, Daryl Hallada, Jill Korn, and Billy Boyer.

TRENDS

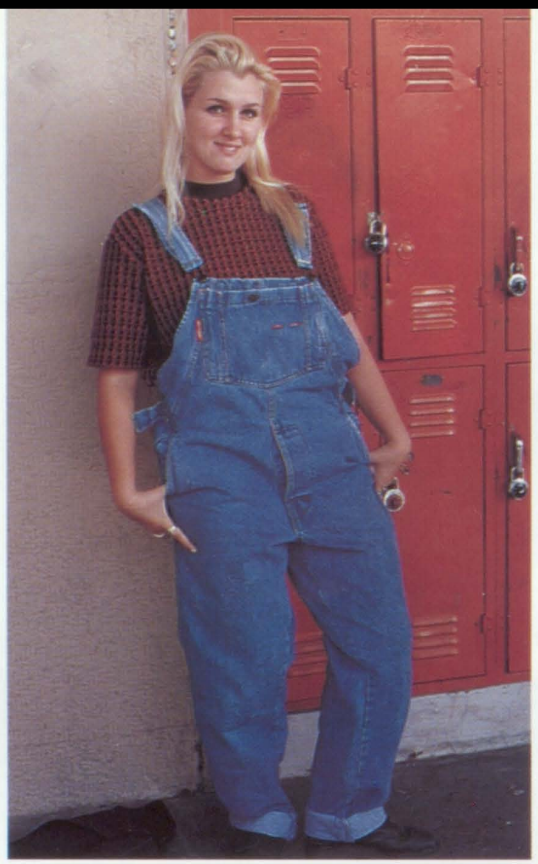
Kim Halstead, fashion warrior of 1991, displays her baggy overalls.



Paul Burgheart wearing a serious outfit, to match a serious face. Team logos are worn by everyone.

"And the winner is . . ."

We polled 300 students in their 5th period classes on issues dealing with the latest trends. The percentages represent those who have or own the listed items. They said:

| | |
|---|---|
| Nike's | 72% |
| a pair of overalls | 41% |
| sheer shirt | 24% |
| leather jacket | 39% |
| spandex | 38% |
| sports apparel | 63% |
| a pair of boxers | 40% |
| a tattoo | 4% |
| ears pierced more than once | 21% |
| Birkenstock's | 21% |
| concert T-shirt | 48% |

Washington is extremely diverse when it comes to favorite music groups. There were a total of 193 individual groups and the top ten were . . .

1) Boys to Men
2) Metallica
3) Bel Biv Devoe
4) Ghetto Boys
   Guns 'N' Roses
   NWA
7) Public Enemy
8) Color Me Bad
9) Beatles
   Depeche Mode

It's those studly men daring to be different once more, as they set the style in headgear: Donald Quigley, David Leon, John Tam, Steve Glock, Sancho Martinez, and David Mc Coy.

Pallavi Naidu and Belinda Ramos strut their stuff, as black and white fashions are back!

Fashion: the prevailing style; current custom in dress, manner, speech, etc. Here at Washington, trends are abundant and the students diverse. Although trends are said to be a "passing fancy" & "just a phase", they are considerably important in student's lives.

Students at Washington can feel comfortable in most anything they choose to wear; from Raider's jackets to plaid skirts. As senior Amanda Wiegand says, "Anything goes! People should wear whatever they choose & wear clothes they feel good about themselves in". Some not unusual sights on campus include: overalls, leggings, sheer fabrics, Starter clothes, cropped cowboy boots, cut-off denim shorts, V-neck shirts, neon, Levi's and anything striped (from bold to pin). Weird designs are in giving some students a disco-psychedelic look as we all long to stand out. Tennis shoes are a must, the more technologically advance, the better (i.e., pump). Most clothes are purposely purchased a few sizes larger as baggy is the style. Colors that have made themselves noticeable this year are green & purple. Also: out with "dude", and in the intelligence.

The kickback attitude of style portrayed by Jake Palmerino, Joel Briceno, Richard Ruelas, and Billy Francis.

Just part of the individualism here at WHS as five unique students show us their eye-catching footwear; Lori Bowers, Fe Batara, Aurora, Amanda Wiegand, and Jenn Damas.

Overwhelming floral galore can not be escaped at Washington, making a comeback as shown by Heather Hall, Mercy Walcoff, Chrisse Haro, Kristi Chipman, Mandi Mullen, Carla Santos, Heather Fernandes, and Laura de Sousa.

Guess who? It's Tracy Jackson with her one of a kind tattoo lizard whom she named Jose.

"Nervous? Me? Nah!" exclaims Dora Rivas who is showing us her leather accessories.

Once Again For The Very First Time

101

High school is synonymous with graduation, dances, homecoming, blood drives, driver's licenses, and more. Aside from being a secondary school of grades 9 - 12, it is in high school where you meet new people and develop new interests. Washington High School contains a variety of clubs that not only allow people to develop their interests and build new friendships, but also to help strengthen the spirit of our school.

Many individuals work hard to build up clubs. When there is a similar interest among a group of people, the "leader of the pack," or a designated person goes to the Student Council to gain permission to start a club. Then an advisor is sought. And afterward, a constitution is drawn up so the Student Council can either approve, ask for changes or a rewrite. A vote is then taken. A majority ruling establishes the club.

Though most clubs are voluntary and require nothing more than a membership fee and your presence for joining, there is a club that is essential to the working of our school. There are a group of students at our school that decides upon the budget of the upcoming year, organize dances, rallies, airbands, and MVAL exchanges. These students are a part of the Student Council. With a strike of the gavel, a meeting is called to order and the dedication and responsibilities of the members become evident.

There is a plethora of clubs offered at our school. Parlez-vous francais? Espagnol? For the linguistic and the curious there is the French and the Spanish Club. Tragos Comos stands for tragedy and comedy, and this club is rightly named. With its help Washington puts on a variety of shows for the public. For those interested in helping out the community, there is Interact, and if you want to help free Prisoners of Conscience there is Amnesty. C.S.F. is for the academic scholars as is the Academic Society. If you are interested in different cultures around our school, there is the International Club. Even the parents can get involved by joining the P.T.S.A., the Boosters or the newly founded Alumni Club.

Whether it's Student Council, Close-Up, or Amnesty each club caters to a distinct and different interest.

The gavel strikes. The meeting is called to order. An attendance sheet is passed around. Minutes and checks are reviewed, and the officers wait patiently as the student council meeting gets under way.

Student Council members have to be dedicated to their work. With all the activities at Washington to plan for and carry out, ASB and other Student Council members have a lot to worry about. There are many individual responsibilities, but as a whole, the entire process is a team effort, with ASB President Mark Stewart leading the way.

People often wonder what exactly Rep. Assembly does. First off, every semester each third period class elects one person to serve as their class representative. Once a month a meeting is held for these representatives. In these meetings a number of things are discussed. Everything that goes on in student council meetings are told to the Rep. Assembly members. The reps then go back to their third period class and relay all the information that they learned. This group of people performs projects on their own and also takes suggestions from their class and presents them in the meetings. A lot of what Rep. Assembly does is on a rather serious note, although they do find time to have some fun. One of the goals of this group is to get to know people better and make more friends.

Rany Koller, Jessica Palacios, and Khulood Al-Agrabi all react their own way to the details of the Washington time capsule which was placed in the new gym this year.

Amy King and Lina Porlaris make sure that they haven't missed any details.

ASSEMBLY

I wonder what Liz Mousourakis is writing that Shana Garza and Janine Pearson think is so funny. The three of them are taking notes during the meeting.

Jeremy Alter, Liz Mousourakis, Khulood Al-Agrabi, and Julie McCrory play a rousing game of "Do You Love Your Neighbor?" Is this what happens in Rep. Assembly all the time?

REP. ASSEMBLY: Vernon Lucas, Mike Williamson, Janine Pearson, Liz Mousourakis, Jeremy Alter, Marya Khoja, Vincent McGautha, Julie McCrory, Matt Severson, Randy Koller, Claire Kabahit, Khulood Al-Agrabi, Maricela Cervantes, Robyn Chilton, Jessica Palacios, Shana Garza, Amy King, Karrie Swenson, Fe Batara, Lina Porlaris, Robert Hart and Chantelle Knapp.

APPOINTED

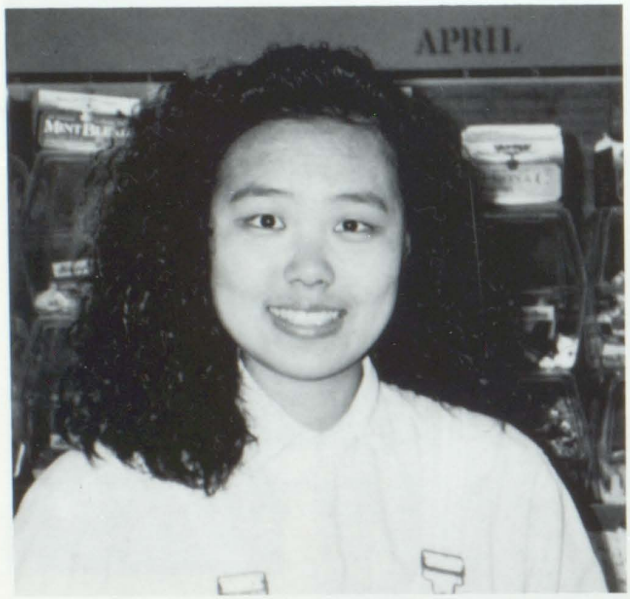
PTSA Reps: Jason Ramos and Malissa Norman

Election Committee: Mark Gelfuso, Arinn Stahler, Valerie Staehli and Tanya Makki



Sec. of Organizations: Bi Nah

Public Relations: Kelly Smith, Liz Mousourakis, and Vanessa Marchis

What is an Appointed Officer? Well, basically they are students who make up the Student Council. They are selected by the ASB Officers and are assigned to a job involving school activities. Each student must meet certain qualifications in order to be chosen as one of the appointed officers. Every representative has his or her own set of responsibilities. They all work hard to meet any of the goals that they may have set for themselves and the school. If you have the desire to become an Appointed Officer, don't be afraid, just get out there and apply. All you have to do is try and you never know, you may succeed. GET INVOLVED.

YOUTH ALIVE

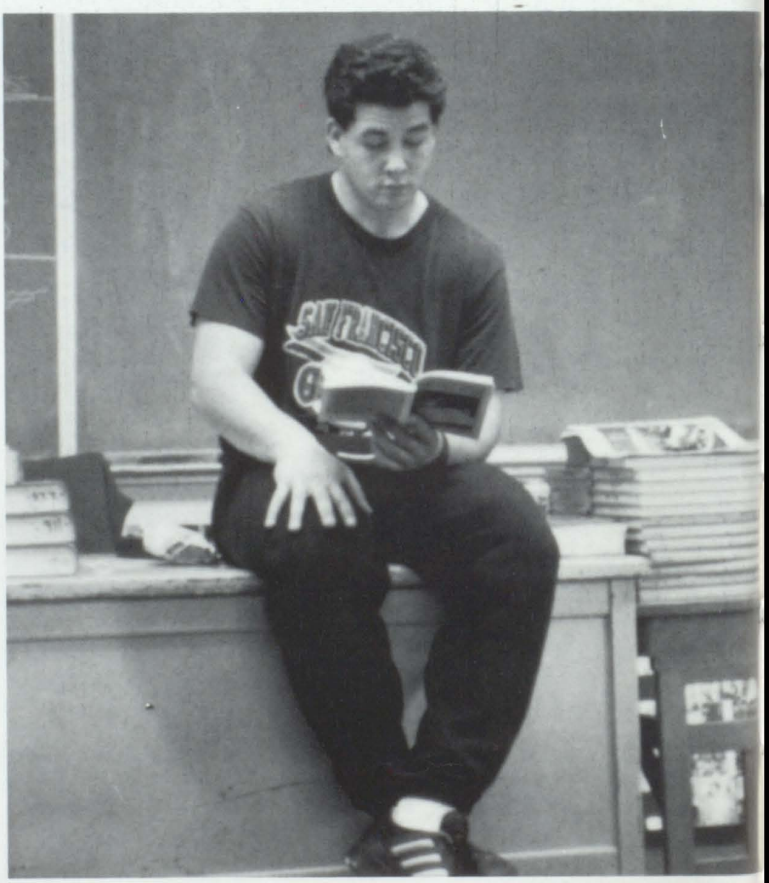
Jeremy Littau, Geoffrey Allik, Justin Alborn, Frankie Tsang, Coach Boggs (advisor), Shannon Old, Tu Cao, Stacy Old, Leila Robbins, and Coach French (advisor).

The mission of Youth Alive Christian Club is to fulfill "The Great Commission" (Mat. 28:19-20); which is to invite people to become learners and followers of our Lord Jesus Christ. The newly-formed club offers every Washington High School student a chance to bring Jesus Christ into their life and after they make that commitment, we seek to guide them in Christ-like conduct in all areas of their life and to equip them for efficient service in accord with their gifts and calling.

This club is open to anyone who wants to join or for anyone who simply needs someone to talk to. Youth Alive is an inspiration for those who need spiritual encouragement.



"Go into all the world and preach the gospel to all creation. He who has believed and has been baptized shall be saved; but he who has disbelieved shall be condemned (Mark 16:15& 16)," exclaims Tu Cao.

Trying to focus on the biblical stand point and the morals about spiritual en couragement is Casey Duke.

TRAGOS COMOS. What is it? What does it mean? Tragos Comos is the drama club at Washington High School. Tragos Comos means "Tragedy Comedy" in Latin. Tragos Comos is a club whose purpose is to give students an opportunity to experience theater. The club members have travelled to various Bay Area theaters to see plays and toured the theaters' backstages. Club members have also participated in the Washington High drama productions this year. Several of the Tragos Comos members have also been active in afterschool drama games.

Hola, y bienvenidos al club de espanol, mis amigos. It seems like it would be obvious what the Spanish Club does but for those who have no clue, here is a brief description. The main purpose of the club is to explore the exquisite and fascinating Spanish culture. It is hard for students to learn and explore this culture. By having a Spanish Club in school, it makes it very simple to get involved. All you do is go to a meeting with a thirst of knowledge and enjoy what the Spanish culture has to offer. The club plans numerous trips to many authentic Spanish places, but due to lack of involvement this year, the trips were postponed. Come and bring your friends and help bring the Spanish Club back alive and to its full potential.

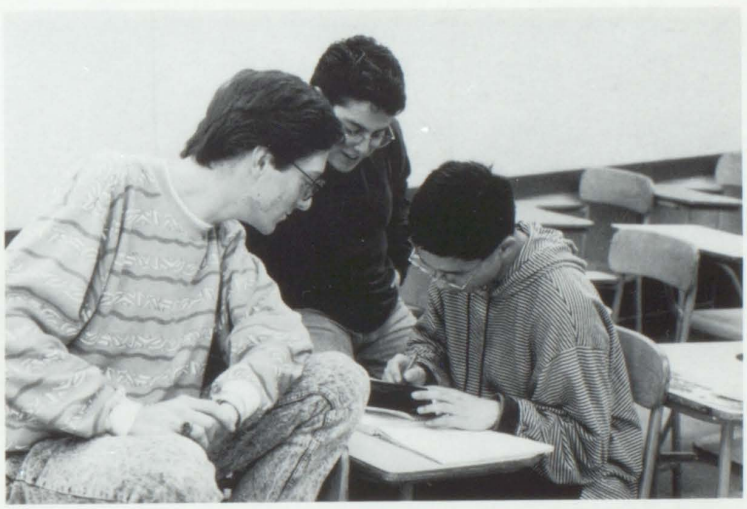
David McFeely practices for the slopes on his imaginary skis he got from the tooth fairy.



Brady Taylor, Shling Ling, and Jason Ramos discuss the plans for the next trip to the slopes.

Do you enjoy the out of doors, a beautiful view of a snow capped mountain, the excitement of speed, or cool and crisp mountain air? If so you might be interested in Washington's own Ski. club. Plan trips with your friends to go skiing and enjoy the beauty of the mountains. Many people join and all are at different ability levels. Some may never have skied before, some may be experts. How ever, this is not the point of the club. The point of the club is to have fun. It gathers people together who have a common interest in skiing and allows them to have one of the best times of their lives. Usually the club takes weekend trips to the Sierras and some of the most wonderful ski resorts located in California. Remember the point of it all is to have fun, no matter how well you ski. Some may improve, some may fall flat on their face, but as long as you have fun it is all worth it.

PTSA president of Washington High School: Marie Silva

PARENT-TEACHER-STUDENT ASSOCIATION (P.T.S.A.) Many ask what PTSA is and what purpose it serves at our school. The PTSA is an organization which supports Washington High School students and their needs in the classroom, as well as throughout campus. The PTSA needs parent involvement and urges the support of the community.

The PTSA is best noted on Friday mornings when they sell donuts in the hallways. The money raised by this and other projects is returned to the students through scholarships.

Thank you PTSA for all of your hard work, we appreciate it!

PEP CLUB

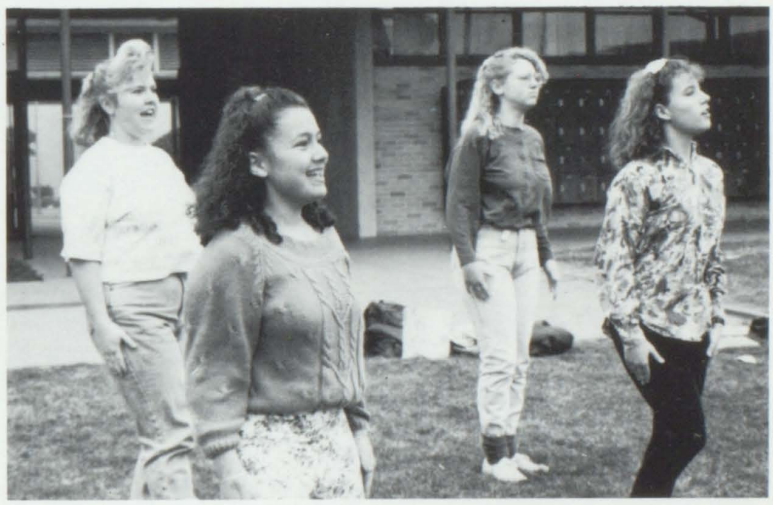
Freshman, Amy Mason, expresses her spirit in the Pep club.



Members of the Washington High Pep club demonstrate their skill in leading a cheer.

For incoming freshman that have a desire to cheer on their fellow class mates in sporting events, Washington High School has organized the Pep club. The Pep club helps to unite the freshman class which is usually a little nervous their first year here. Everybody has all new classes and teachers which makes things a little hectic. The freshman football team needs support from their fellow class mates. This is what the Pep club is all about. The development of new spirit for Washington High School and the unity needed to become the best class ever is the aim of the Pep club. Pep club members play an important role in the spirit of Washington and one day hope to be a bigger part of that role as WHS cheerleaders or song girls.

PEER COUNSELING

The trained peer counselors help students with problems, as well as to develop a better acquaintance with our school, staff, and students. We're also involved in peer tutoring, D.A.R.E. (drug abuse resistance education), and we also have the opportunity to go to a peer counselors conference.

D.A.R.E. involves groups of peer counselors who visit elementary and Jr. High Schools and help them with any questions that they might have about high school experiences, drugs, and a variety of subjects.

Peer counseling is and has been improving each year with a growing number of new members. Peer counselors and our advisors are very responsible, dedicated, and caring . . . dedicated peer counselors help this club to improve, but our advisors play a big role in our improvements. Peer counseling cares not only about students, but our school as well.

The sign saying, "Thanks for coming to school each day!"; represents the support that Alan Sien and Neil Chudgar show as members or Peer Counseling.

Congratulating Chris Walsh as a new member of Peer Counseling are: Julia Kim, Bi Nah, and Julia Nasseri.

JUNIOR STATESMEN OF AMERICA

Anthony Manha listens intently as President Mike Williamson calls the meeting to order.

Julie Porter and Janis Jasany display the "Best New Chapter" award Washington won at Spring State in 1991.

The Junior Statesmen of America is a relatively new club to Washington High School. Started in the spring of 1991, the WHS chapter is part of a large organization that is primarily student run. The students have a chance to get a feel for how a real government works, as they vote for governor, senate, etc. of JSA. The individual chapters of JSA throughout the Bay area often hold mini-conferences where students have a chance to debate controversial subjects or go to thought talks in order to share their opinions with others. This year JSA members attended two large overnight conferences, Spring state in Sacramento, and Fall state in Santa Clara where they had the opportunity to participate in impromptu speeches, and elect new officials.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

Club Advisor — Jeannine Linnell.

President — Dan Nguy.

How would you like to explore and taste foods of different countries? This is one of the many exciting activities carried out by the International Club. The main purpose of having an International Club is to be able to explore different cultures and societies. Students have the opportunity to directly learn for themselves about other cultures as the club takes them on field trips. Another of the club's main goals is to learn about the various traditions carried out in the many societies and cultures of the world. Experiencing and tasting the unique and various foods has to be one of the clubs most favorite activities to do. They bring out and learn the different ways of life in interesting and fun ways. If foreign and exotic countries fascinate you, the International Club is for you. You will definitely have the chance to increase your knowledge and learn about the many cultures, while having a lot of fun at the same time!

Roselle Ponsaran and Lelia Lau aren't quite sure if the foreign food they just sampled agreed with their stomachs, but Winnie Lam sure loved it.

"Look here Marc!" exclaims Klem Vainstein to Marc Perkins while cleaning out the aluminum cans for recycling. He's found a full can of Coke.

INTERACT- THE CLUB THAT HAS SERIOUS FUN

With a growing number of social and environmental problems facing our generation today, it has become more important for all of us to be involved in what's going on around us. Interact, a Rotary International sponsored club, is made up of students with this idea in mind.

Started two years ago by a group of students and advisor Judy Zlatnik, the club has expanded from a group of ten to thirty. With this, has come more and more activities for us to be active in.

Long range projects, like making and serving lunch at the local homeless shelter and school wide aluminum can recycling keep Interactors busy all year long. but activities are not just local. Interact raised $300 this year to donate to the Peace Corps.

All in all, Interact, while maybe not changing the world completely, has reached out and made a difference.

FRENCH

Linda Le, Lelia Lau, Dan Nguy, Roselle Ponsaran, Sheila Cangco, Mrs. O'Donell, Winnie Lam, Josyn Herce.

The French Club is one of the most fascinating groups at Washington high. In this club the members learn about the French culture and how it differs from our own. You don't need to know how to speak French to be a member of their organization, you just need to be a motivated, well developed, mentally stable youth.

This club involves many aspects of the French society. Activities include the preparation of French cuisine, analyzing Fench movie productions, and learning to speak and master the French language. Though the club has a rather small amount of members they contribute greatly to Washington. They bring about cultural understanding and make this world a little better.

It gives students opportunities. Au revoir.

"Hmmm . . ., I don't think they cooked this pate enough," says a pugnant looking Sheila Cangco.

"I'm sick of all this French food," says Lelia Lau with a smile, "I think I'll just have some Jello."

DECA

Anthony Mahna, Noele Melanio, Julie McCory, Jennifer Jonutz, Shakia Stewart, Jason Schultz, and Mrs. Stuart.

Valerie Staehli, Jenny Jonutz, and Shakia Stewart put the final touches on Christmas gifts that DECA bought for their sponsored families.

Junior, Anthony Mahna concentrates hard as he tries to think of something witty to write on the Christmas cards for the needy families.

This year DECA consists of about 22 students, all being Juniors and Seniors since it is a group of Merchandising Marketing students. Jason Schultz, Shakia Stewart, Valerie Staehli, Sarah Lujan, Jenny Jonutz, and Noele Melanio are a few of the dedicated people who organized DECA activities with the valuable help of Mrs. Stuart, their advisor. Washington's chapter of DECA along with others is made up solely of the third period R.O.P. class "Merchandising Marketing." Having only the limited amount of time to meet that they do, they were very successful in taking part in school fundraisers, being active in the community, and participating in DECA conferences.

Their role in the community was a vital one as they chose 6 families in need to sponsor for the holidays. With their own funds they purchased tons of items which were needed by the families and donated them. As they participated in their numerous DECA conferences they learned how to practice their "DECA Creed" which tells them to be of a greater service to themselves and to mankind, which worked hand in hand with their theme for the year "Taking success one step further"!

DEBATE CLUB

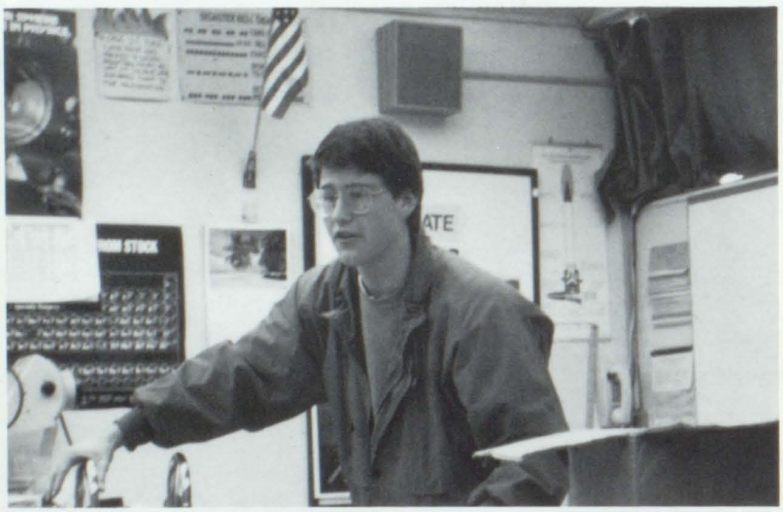
Bryan Gebhardt, Michelle Gallinger, Brian Provenzale, Steve Putt, Danielle Dowling, Michal Gregorini, Jason Chen, Lauren Henderson, Peter Orsi, Liz Mousorakis, Frank Tsang, Andy Stonas, Greg Walsh, Jennifer Bobik, Andrew Zlatnik.



Is abortion moral? How about the death penalty? What is the best way to pull the country out of an economic slump? You can find answers to these and many other issues at any debate club meeting. The debate club is rather informal, everyone is always welcome to interject their opinion; so if you have strong feelings on a specific topic or just want to hear others' ideas, stop by a meeting-there's bound to be some heat!

"I swear it was this big!" says Andy Stonas debating a contraversial debate topic.

Greg Walsh and Danielle Dowling listen intently as Bryan Gabhardt expresses his opinion. They are in awe of his wisdom.

At the top of Sather Tower overlooking U.C. Berkeley are some CSF members and Mr. Lemmon during a field trip on November 13, 1991.

CSF members have fun at a party celebrating the end of first semester. All that hard work has made them all hungry.

"Scholarship for Service". That's CSF's motto and purpose. At Washington the California Scholarship Federation is made up of ninety seven students. Academics is very important to CSF members.

So what does CSF do? On November 13, 50 members went to U.C. Berkeley for a tour of the campus, sightseeing, and a visit to the University Art Museum. Instead of giving the usual food baskets to a homeless shelter at Thanksgiving, CSF donated "school supplies" baskets to 15 kids at the Tri-City Homeless Shelter. CSF donated $15 for each basket, yet some members gave more of their own money to help these needy kids. A new tutoring program of CSF and Peer Counselors was started this year. On Tuesdays and Thursdays the library conference room is staffed with tutors eager to help. An unusually successful candy-cane-gram sale brought in $150 to add to scholarships for outstanding CSF seniors. Scholarships of $100-200 are given to seniors chosen by the CSF Scholarship Committee. Mr. Bill Stull was the advisor for first semester and Mr. John Zlatnik for second.

CLOSE-UP

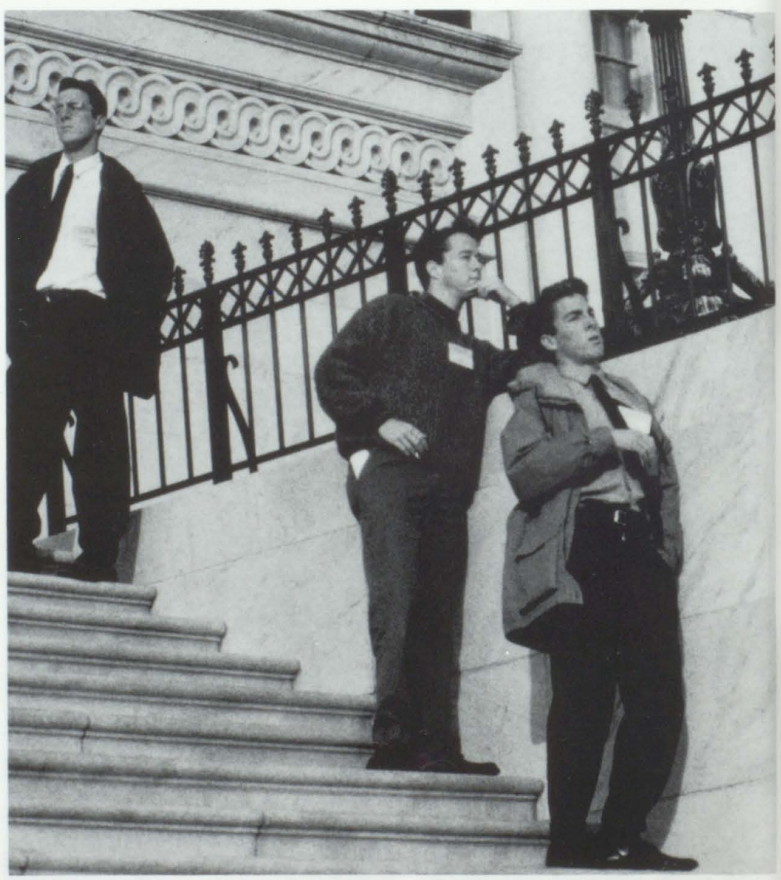
Mr. and Mrs. Burkhart, Merna Morse (advisor), Bryan Gebhardt, Jon Gouailhardou, Michal Gregorini, Andrew Zlatnik, Rebekah Darksmith, Scott McNamara, Judy Dang, Jason Ramos, Michael Fauver, Margot Elliott, Peter Orsi, Mark Gelfuso, David McFeely, Adam Christensen, Danielle Dowling, Brian McFeely, Janis Jasany, and Cheryl Collins.

Many students are interested in the detailed workings of our government. Many students are interested in traveling. Well, you can do both in the Close-Up club. Travel to Washington D.C. for a week and learn what makes the city, and the country, work. Learn about our foreign policies with other nations as well as how the government solves problems that plague our own nation. Visit the capital buildings and possibly meet some of the people that represent us in the U.S. Government. See the monuments dedicated to the founders of our nation as well as to those who died for our nation. Learn about current issues that involve our government. See the sights with teen-agers from around the country on your Close-Up trip. All this wrapped up in a one week, fun filled, educational experience that will stay with you for a long time.



"I want to be her, I want to be her . . ." thinks Margot Elliot while admiring a pilgrim woman.

David McFeely, Adam Christensen, and Brian McFeely take a side trip from the usual Close-Up events to compete in the C & R Clothingers man of the wardrobe competition.

CHESS AND CHECKER

Mr. Heibert, Kuang-yu Shih, Marc Perkins, Luara Clements, Klim Vainstein, Phillip Tsang

William Coleman gives a huge grin after he sees his opponent make a mistake in his favor.

Phillip Tsang begins to have second thoughts about his next move when he sees his rival smile at him!

Check mate is one of the first things you're sure to hear when you enter room 2 during one of Chess and Checkers monthly lunchtime meetings. This year's club consists of about eight dedicated Chess and Checkers players. Their supervisor Mr. Hiebert has plans to hopefully find the students a coach to help them prepare them for competitions against Chess and Checker teams from other schools. As you watch a Chess game you see the competition involved and realize just how complex the strategy is which has helped make Chess one of the most popular board games around. During one of the matches you see a unique strategy as pawns set up a wall to protest the more important icons. A knight waits for unsuspecting pieces to fall into the wrong squares. Without warning he falls on a helpless bishop forcing a rook to vacate his guard. White moves to escape capture and suddenly someone barks check mate!

BOOSTER CLUB

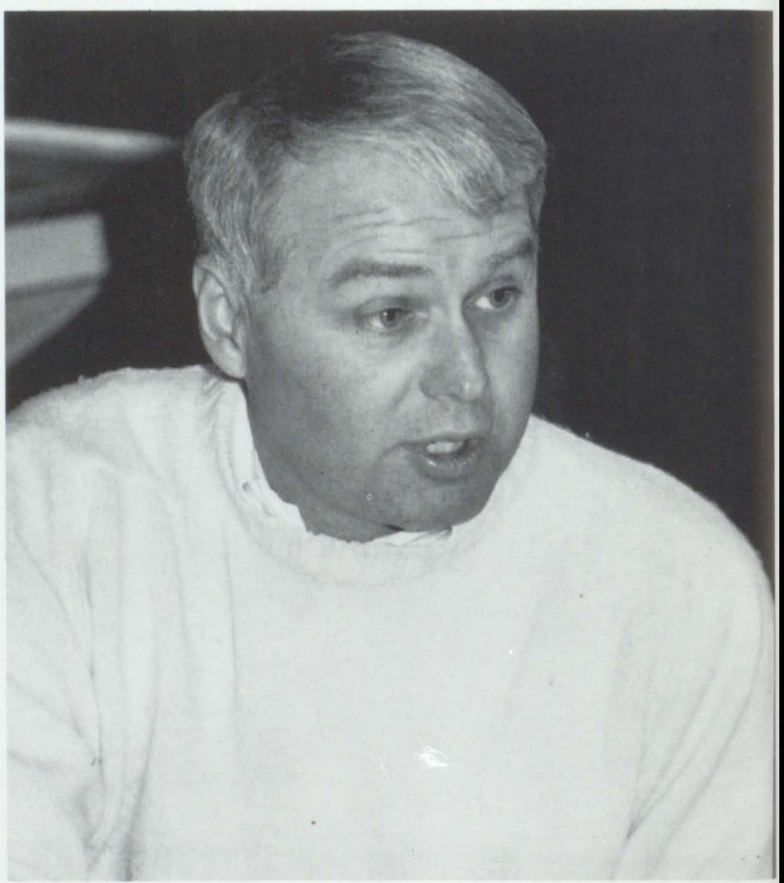
Gary Wilson, Ed Kamei, Peter Hansen, James Kimball, Chris Englestod, Mike Sauvageau, Art Keller, Rick Marshall, Syle Beagles, Gil Lemmon, Liz Hansen, Sue Sauvageau, Bob Quigley, Pam Singh.

Who are the Boosters? One might guess they are the adults seen sitting on orange plastic covered cushions at football games, and in fact he would not be far wrong in assuming this. The Boosters club is made up of parents who donate their time and energy to support and help out the sports program of Washington High. They are the ones who tie the knot between the athlete, parents, coaching staff, and the school administrators to enable the program to function at it's best. Selling donuts every Friday morning on campus to raise money for sports is just one of the many activities this club does to serve us! They also publish a newsletter known as the Paw Print to bring the sports activities and club news to the homes of students of Washington High. Buying new and needed equipment for various sports has been one of the Booster club's main goals.

The Boosters have done so much to help out and keep up the sports program at Washington High. Thank You So Much! Hope to see you all next year!



Booster Club members are always cheerful and willing to help, and we appreciate the time they donate to Washington's sport's teams.

Bob Quigley, president of the Booster Club, actively leads another Booster Club meeting.

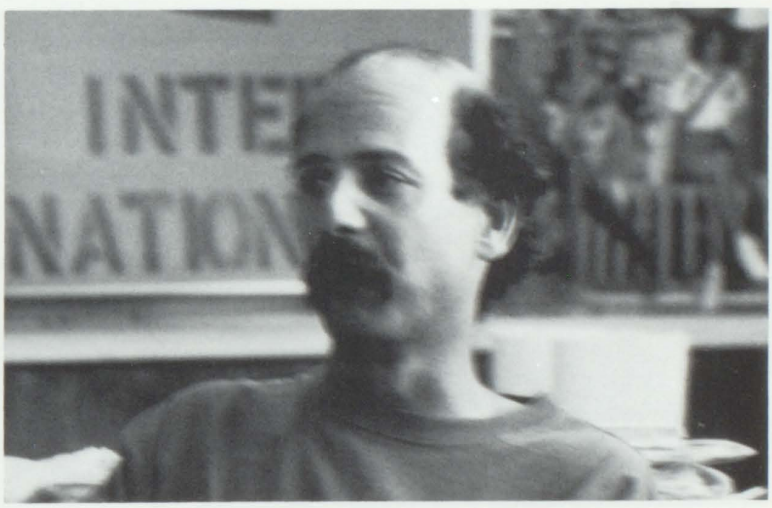
Amnesty International President Danielle Dowling Talks Articulately to the members during lunch.



Mr. Perlman sits at a Amnesty International meeting Looking quite confused. He isn't sure which conference they will attend this week.

Amnesty International is an organization whose members try to help free political prisoners around the world. They do this by writing letters to these various countries and express how they feel about them holding these prisoners and why they feel that the prisoners should be released. The group we have at Washington is only a small branch of the many members of the Amnesty International groups around the world. Because there are so many people, the letters add up and really help the prisoners.

The purpose of the Afghan Club is to bring Afghan students together and also to introduce this culture to anyone who is interested in joining. The main interest is to preserve the Afghan culture and traditions. The students that make the Afghan Club are not only Afghan students, but students from all different nationalities.

During the school year; the club members learned the importance of going to college, taking the S.A.T's, doing extra-curricular activities, and trying hard for what they believe in. For those students who participated in this club, there was an opportunity for a $500 scholarship available to them and he/she would be chosen by the scholar committee.

Maryem Sarwari's bright smile reflects all of the fun she has as a member of A.S.A.

Getting ready for the A.S.A. Variety show, that's held in Cal State Hayward are Nilofer Rahimi and Khatera Mojaddidi. Their voices fill the air as they learn their new song.

"John Dalton, he was the first person to develop a model of the atoms" answers Darren Alt.

"A student dissolves 200 grams of $CH_3COOH$ in enough water to make one liter of solution. What is the $(H_3O)$ and the molarity of this acetic acid solution ... anyone, anyone?" exclaims Andy Stones.

The main goal of the Adademic Society is to prepare students for the Brain Bowl contest, which occurs each year at the beginning of the second semester. This is a tournament which requires a lot of detailed knowledge in math, science, history, sports, arts, and pop culture; as well as a quick hand at the buzzer. The Academic Society holds practice sessions during which they hope to improve their skills and speed.

Brain Bowl is also used to select the best players to be on the school's trivia team. These students participate in at least two other competitions, the MVAL tournament, and Washington's own Bay Area Invitational Academic Championship.

Once Again For The Very First Time

101

Beep, beep, beep!! The incessant droning of the alarm clock echoes in your ears. Finally you muster up enough energy to roll over and press snooze and go back to dreamland. But just as you hit the snooze button you realize, oh my gosh . . . it's Monday!!! And you have to go back to school. Groggily you get dressed and grab your books. The first period bell rings before you have both feet planted on the school grounds. Hoping not to be tardy, you run to class. Luckily there was no homework assigned over the weekend. First period drags on. You are awakened once more only to walk across the school to your second period class. As you sit watching "Romeo and Juliet" your stomach begins to grumble. It's time for a snack. Just then you realize there is going to be a quiz in your Trig class! The third period bell rings . . .

Though this is not the usual scenario, every student has gone through the panic and stress of completing assignments on time, getting to school on time, studying for the killer Physics test or just remembering to bring P.E. clothes to school. Approximately 6 hours a day, 30 hours a week, adds up to about 4320 hours of time one spends in school in order to get a diploma. 4320 hours of listening to lectures and taking quizzes. During this time, Washington High School is preparing the students for the real world. Whether the next step after high-school will be college or a job, Washington has a proud academic tradition which provides it's students with confidence to face the future.

Aside from the basic classes which enrich us and teach us such basics as balancing a two variable equation, computing the acceleration of a moving train, learning about the Tao religion and reciting a soliloquy from Hamlet, Washington offers a variety of electives. From drafting to auto shop to photography, the electives help students pursue their hobbies and interests and help them decide upon careers for the future. However in order to teach us these skills, Washington has an extremely dedicated faculty. Many teachers spend time outside of class to ensure that the student can balance the equations properly or can write the best possible essay for college. And if you are just not sure about college then walk down to the main office and fill out forms to see your counselor. The counselors at Washington help you make that important decision, inform you about what's out there and just listen.

CLERICAL

Often Washington scholars are praised for their academic achievements, and superior attitude toward life. Sadly, most fail to look behind the scenes to see who helped these students along the way. At Washington, Counselors, Administrators, Clerks, and Librarians deserve much of the credit.

Counselors more than once have given confused students a grasp on life, helped them set goals that will carry them through college, and made the road much easier to travel. Washington's couselors go beyond the call of duty in what they do. Administrators, too, encourage students to make the right choices and make the campus a safe learning environment. Our clerical staff, besides their friendly smiles and words of encouragement, direct students to where they want to go. Numerous times their advice has helped to prevent a sticky situation. Last but not least is our library staff. If the book exists, they can help you find it. On occasions, they will even find it for you. In summation, I think it is proper, that every WHS student thank our behind the scenes assistants.

INSTRUCTIONAL AIDES

Instructional aides are a very important part of school. Without them Washington just wouldn't be complete. We need to provide an education for everyone and instructional aides make this possible.

The custodial staff at Washingotn does an excellent job. Although they don't get much recognition, where would we be without janitors. Having a clean school makes learning a lot easier, it makes us enjoy being at school and gives us pride in our facilities. Being a janitor is a dirty job, but we love them for it.

Mr. Mangini and Mrs. Vis make up our student activities department. They make things like costume contests, spirit week, and student council possible. They make school more enjoyable and conveninent for all of us.

ENGLISH

Where else can you learn the meaning of pusillanimous, sundry, nefarious, and amalgamate? What other class provokes you to question your use of language effectively? English, of course! During the four mandatory years of English we take at WHS, we are challenged with a variety of different assignments. Ranging from essays, commentaries, reading books, tests, vocabulary, projects, and those dreaded orals. Informative orals, demonstrative orals, and group orals.

In English, students can discuss literature and poetry yet still speak openly on controversial subjects and home life. Huckleberry Finn, Romeo and Juliet, Animal Farm, Bless the Beasts and the Children, A Separate Peace, To Kill a Mockingbird, The Great Gatsby, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, Beowulf, and The Canterbury Tales are among the reading selections which we indulge in. English also provides us with one of the most dreaded kinds of tests: ESSAY TESTS.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Have you ever wondered about the languages of countries far, far away. Countries with different cultures, different people, and very different languages. Here at Washington High School's foreign language department you can learn about such languages and cultures. Learn of the vast regions of France and the beautiful language of French. See French movies and learn part of daily life within France. If French doesn't suit you try and see how you enjoy Spanish. Experience the varied culture of the Spanish people and their language. There is always German for those who find no interest in the previous two languages. Experience German food and song along with the unique language of these people. Students here usually find a language within the foreign language department that interests them. They all are interesting yet very different from one another. See what culture and language suits you best here at Washington High School.

MATH

All students who graduate from Washington High meet the state requirement in mathematics by completing two years of course work. The mathematics department provides a variety of courses which will meet the state requirements and cover a broad range of student needs.

In addition to the regular math classes, the math department sponsors two math contests. The California Mathematics League (CAML) and the American High School Mathematics Examination (ASHME) provided interest and challenge to the students who took them.

The math department organizes its own contest, the Geometric Construction Contest in the spring. The entries are judged in two categories: modern drawings and traditional drawings.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

There's more to physical education than the physical work. Let's face it, getting physically fit isn't a facile chore. P.E. consists of 45 minutes of strenuous exercise, whether it be weight lifting with Coach Ingram, folk dancing with Mrs. Dean or playing tennis with Coach Boggs. This year Washington High School changed the usual program due to lack of facilities. Now the boys and the girls are segregated. Every six weeks the students who have P.E. receive new assignments so to speak. They change their activities. By doing so, they are able to participate in many different sports while meeting a lot of new people at the same time. Although two years of P.E. are required, many students continue taking it as an elective after they have met their requirements for graduation. Why? What better way to keep physically fit, earn credits, have fun, and not have to worry about homework!

SCIENCE

The applications behind the sciences are innumerable, and no matter what scientific field you are specializing in, whether it is classifying rocks by their crystal structure or discussing the valences of the halide group, it is all an important part of our everyday lives. The sciences utilize techniques in observation, analysis, mathematics, logic, reasoning and countless other skills. Science is the medium which brings us closer to the happenings and changes that occur constantly in nature and it allows us to better understand the workings of the environment which surrounds us.

Have you wondered where the cultures of the world began? How did the Egyptians build such pyramids? Why did the Vikings invade England? The answers to these and many other questions about the development of world culture will be answered in World History. Learn of interesting cultures and their development. Then you will move up to U.S. History and learn of how our own nation was formed. Discover such things as why our country was started and how it developed both physically and economically. The Social Science department also offers Government and Economic classes to teach us of the workings of our government and economic systems. # BUSINESS

How valuable is it to learn how to type, use a computer, or balance one's checkbook? The answer to this question is the reason why so many students take some sort of Business class at Washington High.

Business classes taught at Washington range from Computers and Typing, to Advanced Computerized Accounting and Merchandise/Market. The main goal of the Business Department is to prepare students for the rapidly changing job market and to give them the basic business skills necessary to keep their personal lives in order. By giving the students hands-on experience and letting them test for themselves their own personal business career interests, the department hopes to achieve this goal.

There is also another way in which students can investigate their own personal interests in the business field. Work Experience Education is a program in which students can work and have a job off campus and receive high school credit for it.

The skills taught in the Business Department are very useful skills which students will be able to use for the rest of their lives and will also enable them to get a head start in the business world.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

"Oh, no! I'm an eighth of an inch off! Now I have to start all over again," thinks Chris Hodges.

Have you ever wondered how exactly a car works? This question, as well as many others, can be answered through taking classes offered in the field of Industrial Arts at Washington. Subjects such as autoshop, metalshop, woodshop, and drafting are all taught at Washington.

In autoshop students vary from those who have no idea about cars and just want to become more familiar with them, to those who already maintain their own cars and someday plan on becoming a mechanic.

Beginning Metal and Woodshop classes stress the importance of safety in working with tools and their hands. Students learn to use both hand and electric tools and about the basic thought behind the field. The students can then take more advanced classes if so desired.

Students taking drafting learn how to draw plans and certain shapes, and how to construct using their plans as a guide.

There are many things one can learn about the Industrial Arts at Washington High. The techniques, use of imagination, and skills learned through taking any of these courses will be something these students can use for the rest of their lives.

DRAMA

ACT 3: DURING THE INTERMISSION THE AUDIENCE HAS SEEN THE STAGEHANDS ARRANGING THE STAGE. ON THE RIGHT-HAND SIDE, A LITTLE RIGHT OF THE CENTER, TEN OF THE TWELVE ORDINARY CHAIRS HAVE BEEN PLACED IN THREE OPENLY SPACED ROWS FACING THE AUDIENCE. THESE ARE GRAVES IN A CEMETERY . . . To most people these directions have no relevance what-so-ever, but to a student in Drama, these directions are anything but Greek. The students in Drama must overcome stage-fright in order to do monologues and improvisation scenes. Not only are students placed under the spotlight but they must also learn about the history of Drama itself. If you happen to stumble upon the Drama room, you might see a group of students practicing the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet, inventing a radio show or imitating a duel between two knights in the medieval times. And don't be shocked if you hear screaming from within the walls of the Drama room, the class could be rehearsing the shower scene in the movie Psycho.

Who says chivalry is dead? Junior Sonny Desai awaits for his beautiful lady upon one knee, just like Don Quoixote would.

Laying down on the job is freshman Tom Hall who is enacting the death scene from Swan Lake.

"It's a lot easier to get up in front of people and make a fool out of myself than I thought it would be."

-Angela McEwen

To most the plastic plant in Nabil Ahmed's hand may look like a prop but in reality the plastic plant is a weapon used to scare off bad critics.

Perched on a pedestal, junior Amy Fitch stares into her script pretending it's a compact.

Food for thought? What is the recipe and how long will it take to prepare thinks freshman Anna Leahy as her friends Troy Mosley and Greg Fernandez ponder the question also.

HOME ECONOMICS

Cook and stir hamburger and onion in 10 inch skillet until hamburger is light brown; drain. Stir in salt, garlic salt, rice and 1 cup of tomato sauce; heat through . . . A simple meal such as the recipe above is cooked in the home economics class. As you pass by the class, the aromas of their creations float into your nostrils making your mouth water. Students are given a chance to not only become culinary geniuses but also an expert at sampling their creations. Asides from cooking and sampling a variety of foods, this course also emphasizes measuring, nutritional sciences and table services. The students learn about following directions while baking a cake or boiling a hotdog. It also teaches the students money management, organization and such important skills as washing and drying the dishes.

As Bryan Glace watches sophomore Mindy Lynch stir her batter he wonders why his isn't as lumpy.

FIRE! as the smoke begins to rise, Rachel Lang wonders whether or not her macaroni and cheese is going to survive.

"This is the most disgusting thing I have ever cooked. It is a slimy, sticky version of a dish called macaroni and cheese."

ART

James Giacomazzi, Jeff Weed, and Eric Love create their replicas of magazine and book photographs.

Alex Legan has worked for months on this portrait of a rabbit in a snow storm.

Let's take a trip into the world of a renowned artist. Colors and shapes speckle the terrain highlighted by shading and texture. It's all in the perspective and that is what students learn in art class. Taking time out from their stress laiden academic classes, art provides students with a taste of each of the various medias. The flavor consists of form, line, space, and color. Though some art is required, art students look at this as a fun class taught in a unique way by Mr. Ficken, Mrs. Tomlinson, and Mr. French.

Some of the topics taught in the year long class are drawing, sculpting, print making, design and composition, and many others. Whether in sketch books, on portraits, or in clay students enjoy using their imagination to create whatever their heart desires.

Ginger Tomlinson

"Art teaches us to draw and visualize. Now we appreciate art in life."

-Eric Love

Art Marin and Danny Decosta look up to smile after finishing a drawing in their sketch book.

Darren Boddy and Nathan Delgado concentrate on creating perfect art forms.

PHOTO

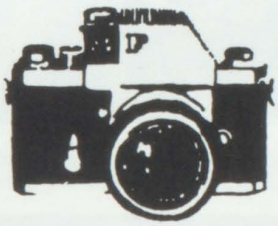
Dan Southworth searches for the right words to describe his soccer photo.

With the eye of an eagle young photographers go off campus searching the environment for action packed photos. Inspired by the never say die marathon running instructor, they grope for composition, contrast, and subjects to make up that perfect shot. Back in the classroom, it's noisy as confused students quiz each other, buy film, and sign up to enter the dark room. Nestled behind black curtains, and under red lights these amateur photographers make prints from their film, using filters, burning, and cropping to enhance the photographs' success.

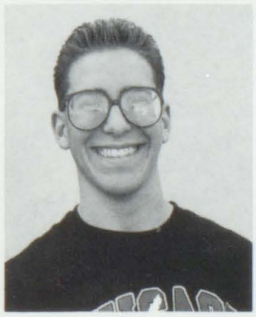
The perfect print is hard to obtain, but using such rules of composition as leading lines, triangles, relative size, framing, and geometric shape it is easier to put together. This print would focus the viewers eye on the center of interest, and relay a mood. Washington has an excellent photography department that offers a wide variety of projects to enlighten students. Most of all it helps them to see the world in a new perspective.



Paul Ficken

"Wait a second, I didn't take this picture. How did it get in here," thinks Melanie Duchesne.

Here we catch Roselle Ponsaran trying to glue her photo project to the table.



"You definitely feel a sense of completion when you finish a print."

With their mouths poised open like guppies gulping for air our choir can be seen daily under the direction of Mr. Mitchell who, with his usual cynical style, leads them through their scales. Washington offers both beginning and advanced choir as electives. Beginning Choir, much like band, is open to any student with an interest in music. Advanced Choir, however, is a bit more prestigious with required tryouts. Both choirs sing in concerts that are required for the class. Although it may look easy, being in choir takes practice and dedication on the part of all its members. Go see a concert and you'll notice, however, that there is room for fun in singing too! It would be a refreshing change to see more students attend our choir's performances. Like sports, music needs our support too.

Advanced Choir: (alpha order) E. Agrama, S. Brenneis, S. Carlos, V. Conroy, C. Davis, C. Dizon, C. Duke, F. Fierro, J. Gonsalves, D. Gurr, R. Hoem, J. Jonutz, L. Lau, A. Little, L. Martin, R. May, J. Norman, M. Norman, J. Olson, S. Palmer, K. Peterson, K. Rockafellow, S. Scroggins, M. Shair, A. Shores, A. Tomasello, B. Torres, M. Wahdat, D. White, M. DeOliveira, D. Lambert, A. Boxx

Wait guys, did we miss our part? John Fitch, Kent Bradley, and David Gilbert stare at the music in puzzlement.

Blow like you've never blown before, Ian Nelson and James Chipman.

Duane Mitchell

The rising din that one hears after a long trek out to the Memorial Grove Theater is restoration of the old building. (NOT) No, it's our very own band warming up. Taken as an elective course, band is a musical outlet for the budding virtuoso. Led by the witty Mr. Mitchell they perform in a number of concerts for which they practice both in and out of class. During football season they can occasionally be found entertaining the crowd from the stands. Any amount of talent is enough to get you into band provided you have dedication and enthusiasm. Just by listening to a concert put on by band you can tell that Washington's 1991-92 smattering of musical talent is brimming with just those qualities.

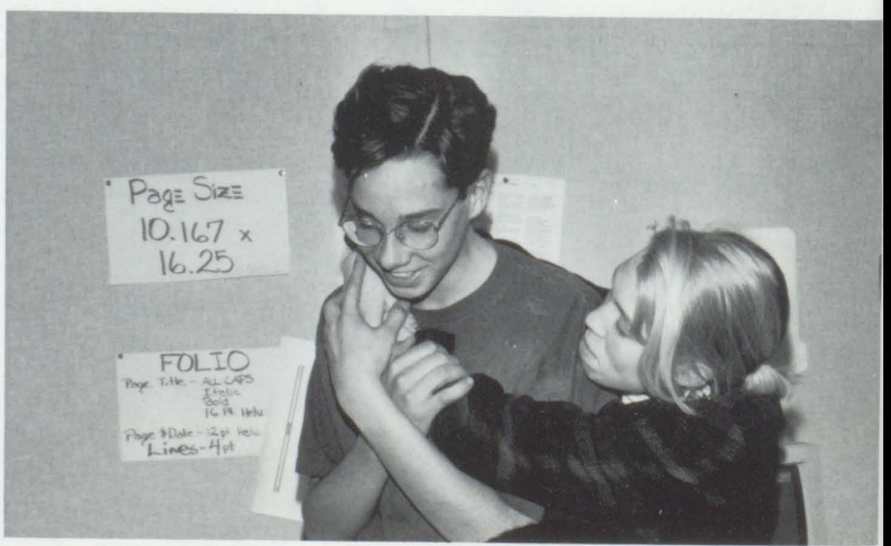
For Ms. Wilson's 6th period class, publication of The Hatchet, a biweekly newspaper, involves constant hard work. Often, the editors and some dedicated reporters devote one day over a weekend and many late nights on Wednesday after school paste-ups, in order to insure that The Hatchet comes out on time, and as good as possible. But this nerve-wracking process is unrelenting. As one issue goes to the printers, the staff is already hard at work getting ready for the next paper. Two weeks may seem like an eternity to the average bored high school student, but it flies by in the blink of an eyelash for the editors, who find it a seemingly impossible task to meet the deadline. But reading and distributing The Hatchet on the Fridays it comes out is something of a cathartic experience, and gives staff members a definite feeling of accomplishment.



On a beautiful Sunday afternoon, Ethan Wimert relaxes in the journalism room tabulating survey returns for a special two page report on ethnicity at Washington High School.

Janine Pearson and Avani Patel share the joy of being a part of The Hatchet. They're also hangin' out and working on the paper on a weekend afternoon.

Taking a moment to celebrate their accomplishment is Petah and Bekah. They often spend restless hours putting out the upcoming issue.

Mr. Fred Brower

This year's Yearbook took many long hours of work, along with a great deal of creativity. Much more thought and preparation was put into these few hundred pages than most people realize. But in the end, this finished product made it all worth it.

The Yearbook started in July with the three editors attending Yearbook camp. The preliminary plans were then drawn up and many of the ideas were formulated before the school even started.

Once school started, the class was faced with four difficult deadlines to meet. Many unforeseen problems arose, but after much work, the book was completed. The class could relax and pat themselves on the back for the job well done. The running around campus trying to get the last pictures was over and there would be no more all-weekend editing sessions for the editors.

We hope that everyone enjoys this edition of the Washingtonian. Have fun going over these memories in the years to come.

Scott McNamara works diligently as David Duke regresses to cut and paste. Nothing beats hard core yearbook excitement.

"Move copy from the gutter to eliminate trapped captions, and bleed this ghost photo like this to finish the DPS . . ." Samir enlightens Les Peterson with his brilliant ideas.

Lots of goodies can be found in a layout envelope. In this one, George Kralovansky finds . . . a final layout, and a bunny!

SPORTS

Once Again For The Very First Time

101

For a century now sports at Washington have given Huskies something to be proud of. Again and again our superiorty is evident, both in how well we play and how we act on the playing field.

Sports provide the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat. Huskies Athletes meet the challenge and excel. Competition provides many important characteristics that athletes use in class as well as in life. Good sportsmanship, team work, discipline, and pride, just to name a few.

Huskies truly are high quality athletes, so high standards must be met to make a sports team or squad. Both maintaining a 2.0 GPA without any "F" and enduring the fierce competition of tryouts.

With Gymnastics, Badminton, Cheer, Song, Water Polo, Football, Volleyball, Boys and Girls Tennis, Cross Country, Boys and Girls Soccer, Boys and Girls Basketball, Boys and Girls Swimming, Track and Field, Wrestling, Golf, and many more; students are sure to find a sport that fits their character.

Once students have found their sport they exert time and energy in perfecting their talents. Through pain and repetition, each day practice improves their individual and team performance. Prepared both mentally and physically Huskies look forward to games, meets, and competition with eagerness. Athletics is dealing with the stress, overcoming anxiety and using the skills they've obtained.

This year was especially hard on all the athletic teams because of the absence of a gym. Since many of the home games and practices are done in the gym, we had a problem. Numerous teams had to go to adjacent schools and use their facilities. Not only did the absence of a gym cause problems, but an absence of money. Many teams didn't get the new nets, or bats, or the basketballs needed to play. A great number of the things they planned to buy had to be put on hold for another year again. This year was another tough year for the Huskies but as usual we were able to pull through. The completion of the new gym will again unite the Husky Spirit.

So now with the beginning of a new century for Washington as well as the realigning of the MVAL, it is crucial that sports remain a part of Washington High School to excel and promote athletes as well as Huskies pride. Washington High School truly has Huskies pride and strength. We represent 101 years of proving ourselves worthy of the name HUSKIES.

BADMINTON

"Look! Up in the sky! It's a plane, it's Superman, no it's a birdie!" Watch out Melody Law, you better defend yourself.

Tanya Marin shows the quick reflexes needed to succeed in badminton and the determination to overcome any obstacle.

Coach Lemmon gathers his troops, so he may impart some of his wisdom and experience to the younger players.

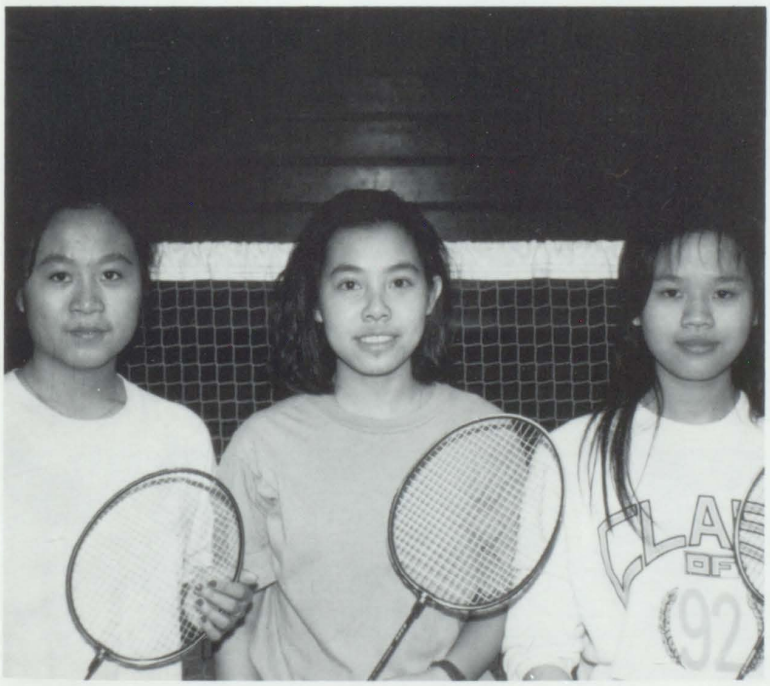
Brian Benavides, the only male member of the badminton team, miscalculates the position of the birdie.

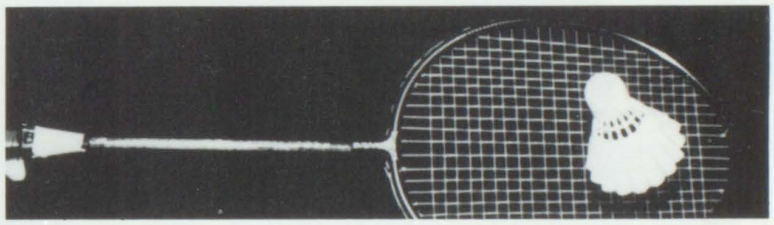
Dan Nguy shows her experienced form to the awestruck freshmen and sophomores.

Van Nguy focuses all of her concentration on the birdie so she can spike it in the face of her opponent.

"Her racquet was this big!" exclaims Kuang-Yu Shih, as she recounts an old badminton tale to the team.



SENIORS: Melody Law, Dan Nguy, Kuang-Yu Shih



Badminton-A game of skill, strategies, quick reflexes, and very intense competition. Badminton is very similar to the game of tennis; however, instead of blasting a little green ball, you hit a small birdie (sparrows work well). The badminton racquet is also much lighter and smaller than the tennis racquet because the wrists do most of the work. The practices are being held at Kennedy High School until the New Gym opens. Coach Gil Lemmon coaches the entire team, which includes the varsity singles and doubles players. With the great skills and willingness of these players, they will no doubt make it to NCS. Today the MVAL, tomorrow the world. Good luck to our badminton team! Do not be afraid to whack the birdie!

BASEBALL

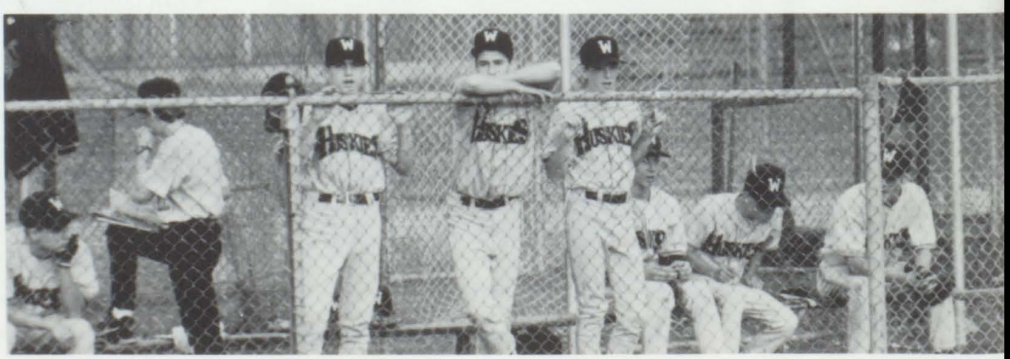
Bottom Row: Marcus Dawal, Nathan Delgado

Concentrating hard on the pitcher's next move is Marcus Dawal.

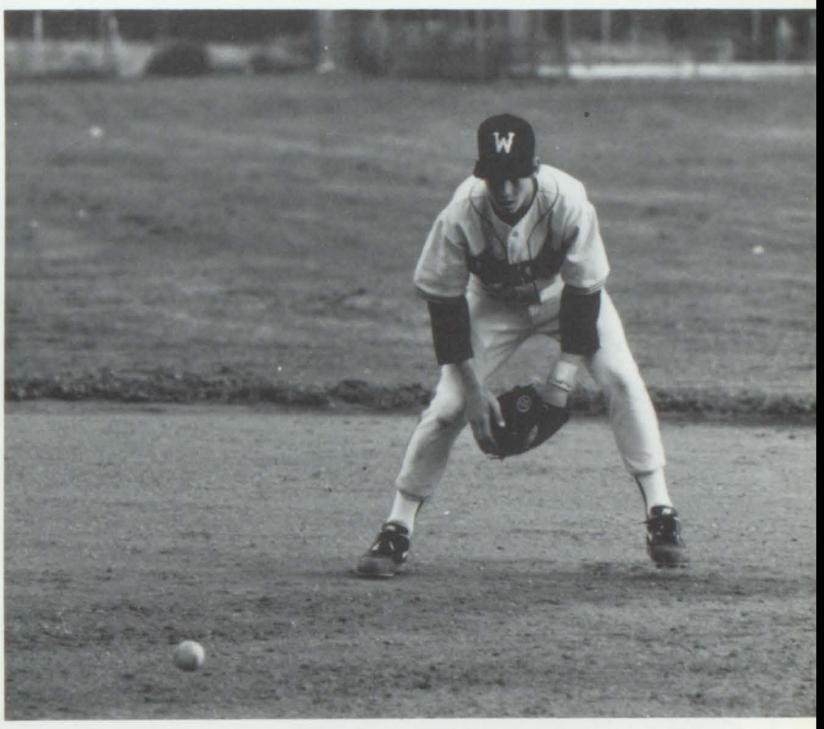
Waiting for their turn at bat, the J.V. team players watch from the dugout.



Jared Hattaway is poised and ready for the pitch.

Toby Vares anxiously awaits a slow rolling ball.

The Washington Huskies' Varsity and J.V. teams seem to be off to a good start. As the opening of the season, the team had a bit of a problem getting a complete team together. According to Coach Lightfoot this was caused by the overlapping basketball season. But with this problem passed, the excellent pitching and hitting skills of the Huskies are expected to give the team a good record this year. Both teams have cooperative players who work really hard so we'll be looking forward to an exciting season.



Billy Francis shields his eyes from the sun so he can see the ball coming.

Mike Sanchez sprints for first base.

JV BASKETBALL

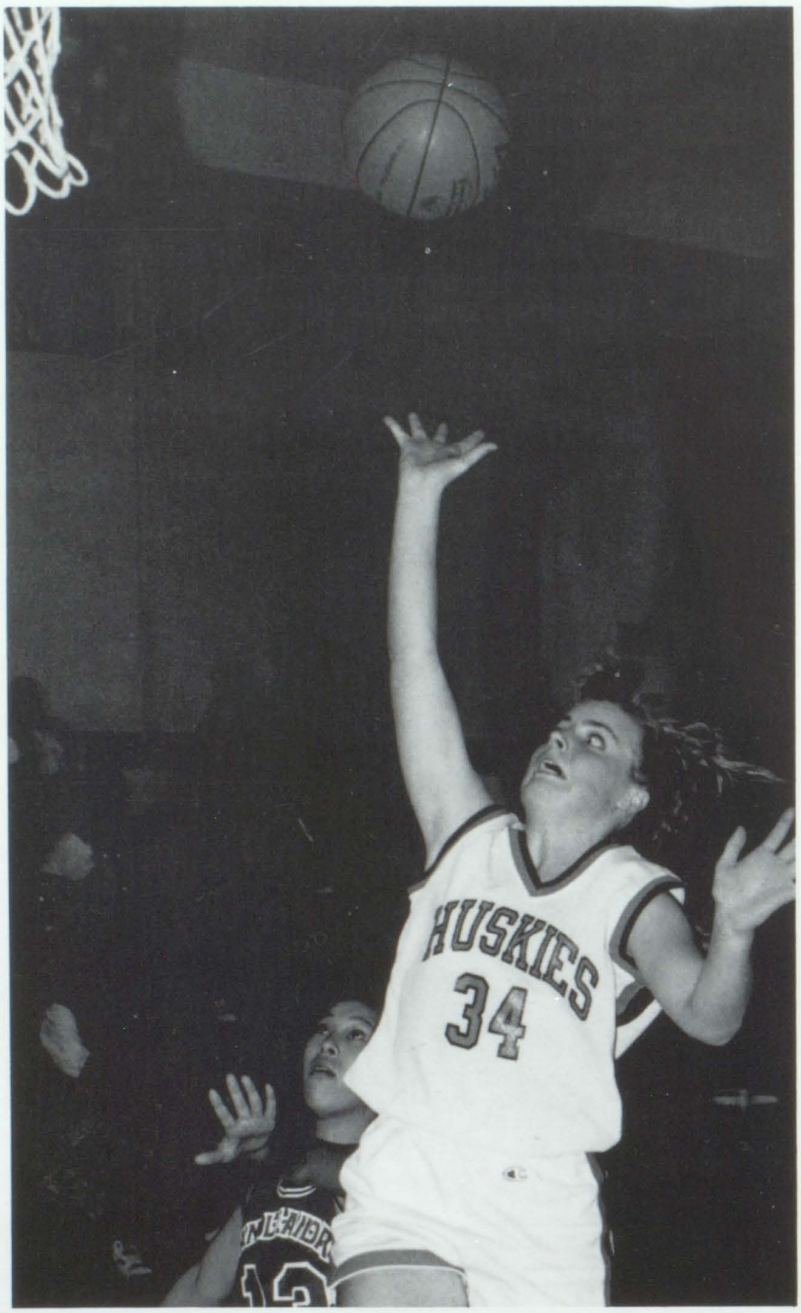
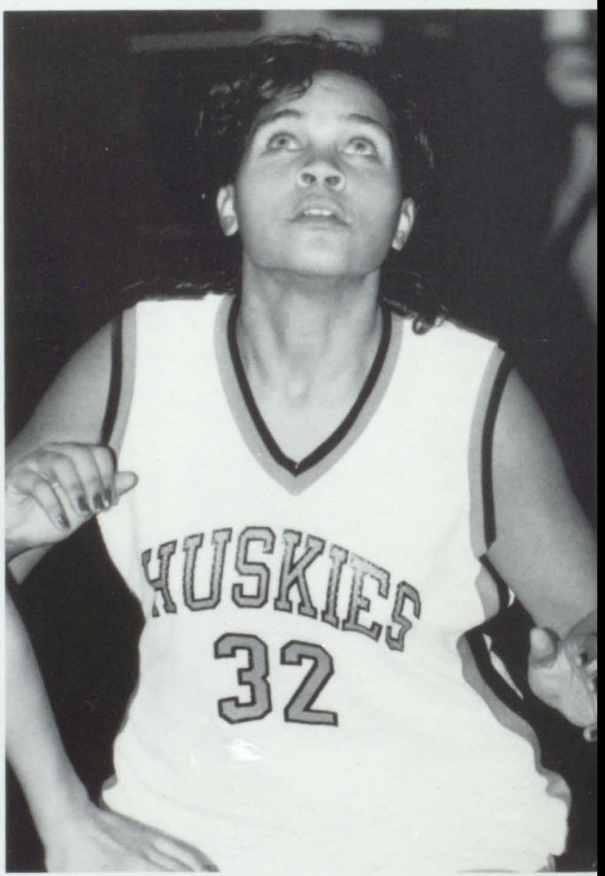
Janel Glock goes up for two points and at the same time proves to everyone that not only birds can fly, but Huskies can too.

Pushing the opponent out of her way is number 35, Kirsten Veltman. Even with a bad knee she is still capable of playing to her fullest.





Brandi Presley waits impatiently for the ball to hurry up and come down so she can go up for the two points.

The girls' junior varsity basketball season started off with a great deal of enthusiasm. Even through the Huskies played another season without a gym, they still managed to come out alive and healthy. this year's J.V. basketball team still showed all of us that they had the will and determination to stay united as a team. The team was made up of both sophomores and juniors. Like many teams in the past, this year's team still was determined to continue the winning tradition at Washington even when many were doubtful.

Hopefully all of these girls will return again next year. This time they will be coming home to a new gym to show off their B-ball talent.

We would like to applaud this year's J.V. girls team for all of their hard work and effort they put into keeping girls' basketball alive at Washington.

Pictured is Julie Coffman trying to bounce the ball. The ball appears to be stuck on her hand, but she's got HUSKY POWER to get it off.

Trying to figure out what she should do next is Michelle Day. Should she pass it or should she go up for the shot herself?

#44, Erin Wittenberger pushes the head of their rival while #33, Mary Ann Marchetti, tries to snag the ball away from her.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

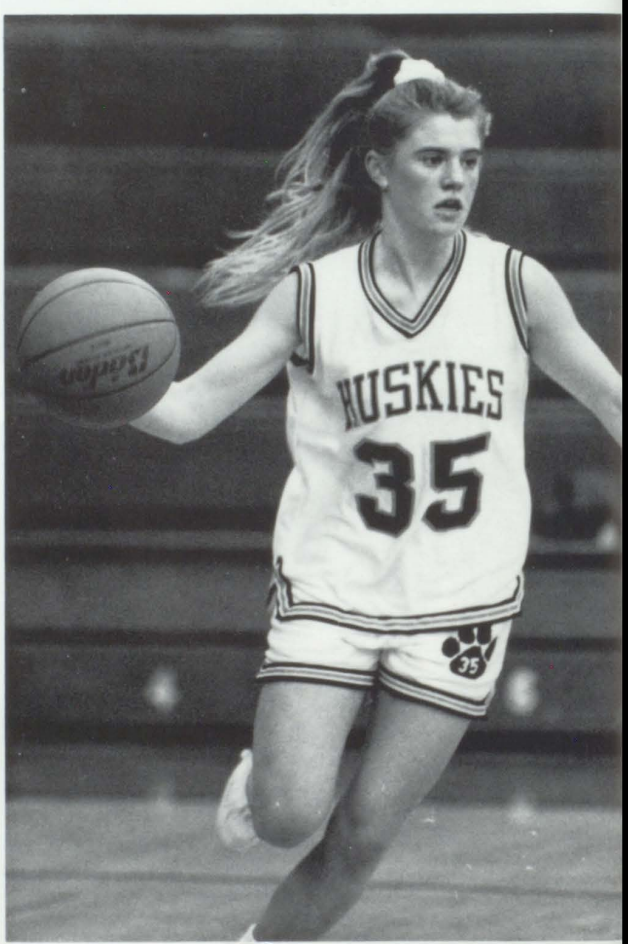
The 1991-92 Girls Basketball team has put together talent and a lot of heart for a winning combination. The Huskies are led by co-captains Sr. Rosie Canatol and Jr. Michelle Keller. These two combine for a strong backcourt-front court duo, and a combined scoring average of 26 points per game. Strong guard support comes from seniors Stephanie Shaffer and Margot Elliot. Rounding out the seniors are posts Andrea Aro and Alyssa Weigand. The Huskies have seven juniors and one freshman to round out the team. Standouts in this group are junior Melanie Duchesne at post, Shonna Moran at forward and freshman Michelle Spediacci. Pre-season polls picked the Huskies to finish third in the MVAL behind state contender Moreau a very experienced American team. The goal for the Huskies is to do just that and to get into post season play.

Seniors: Margot Elliot, Rosie Canatol, Andrea Aro, Alyssa Alissa Wiegand, and Stephanie Shaffer.

"Let go! It is by ball," screams Andrea Aro.



Junior Helen Presley shows off her swift moves.

Here comes Stephanie Shaffer at full speed . . . Better watch out girls!

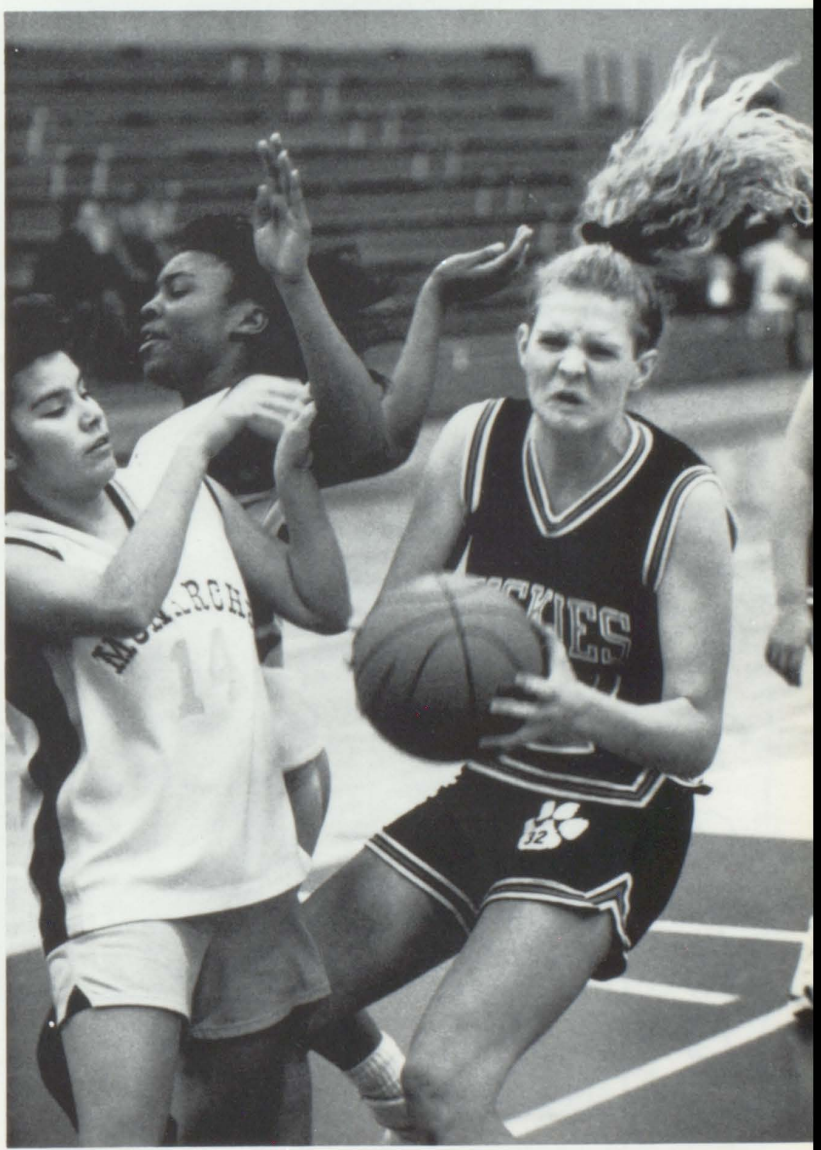
Michelle Keller attempts to make her way through so she can get the ball back into the play.



Junior Melanie Duchesne is practicing her new strategy. First she tries to scare her opponent away, then she goes for the shot.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

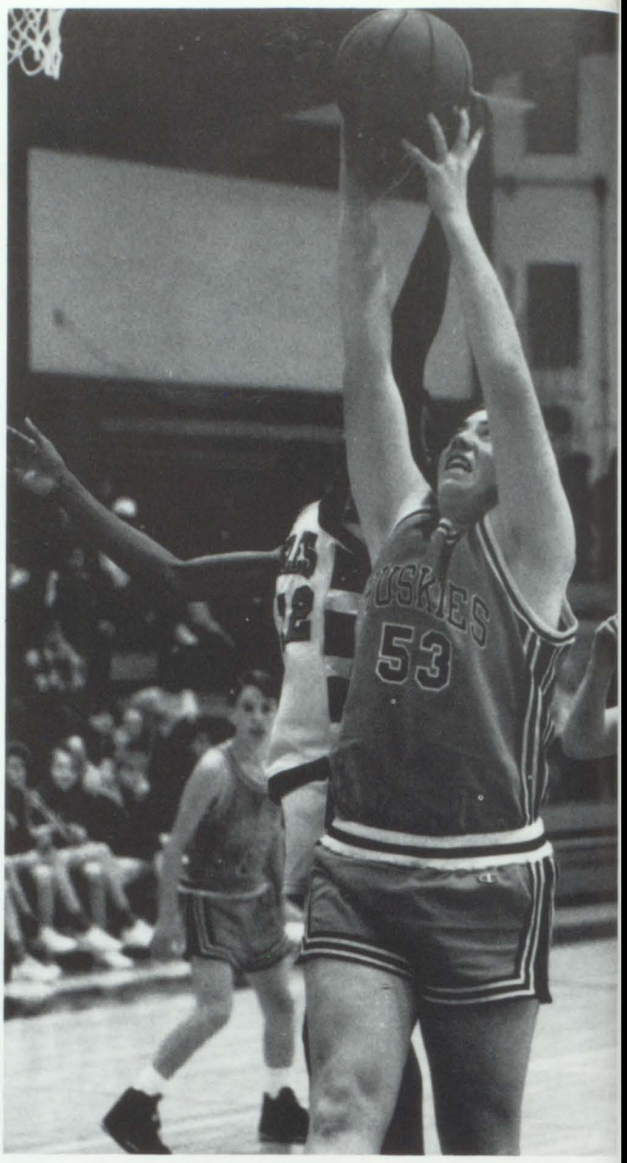
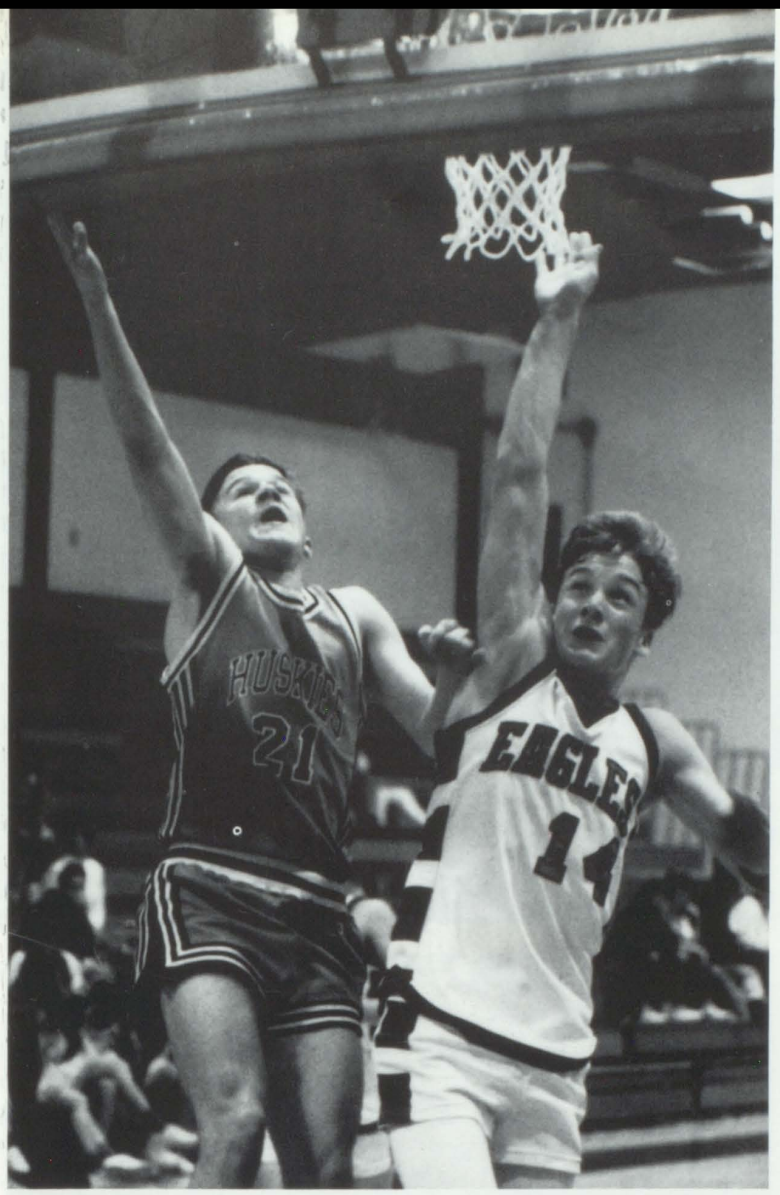
Breaking past an Eagle defender, Aaron Walker takes hold of the advantage and hopes to shoot for two.

Reaching as high as his body will take him, Greg Skubal tries to get the ball past the defense and into the hoop.



Top row: Jason Franchi, Aaron Walker, Greg Skubal, Pat Dempsey, Coach Kenney, Kent Bradley, Jared Franchi, Kevin Scott; Bottom row: Keith Becker, Greg Fernandez, Bill Boyer, Lyle West, Alex Legan.



One on one with his opponent, Jared Franchi flies high for possession of the ball.

Greg Fernandez tries to decide who to pass the ball to as the clock winds down.

Lyle west screams out, "Running Paw!" signifying a formation to his fellow teammates.

Washington Huskies are quick and agile as Jason Franchi displays. He's careful not to lose the ball or his balance.

The Freshmen Basketball team was really on the ball this year. The season was packed with excitement. The team had some problems without the use of a gym but they were able to pull through. The whole team put in many hours of cooperative practice. Not only did they learn new defensive and offensive plays but how to work together as a team. And as the season continued, we saw more of their good work out on the court. In the past, Mike Kenney has coached the Freshman players leading them to be excellent J.V. and Varsity players. According to Coach Kenney, the boys work really well together at practice and are very cooperative. Despite their small size compared to the rest of the league, Coach is looking for a really good record this season. Good luck to all of our Freshmen players. The students of Washington High School are wishing you the best.

JV BASKETBALL

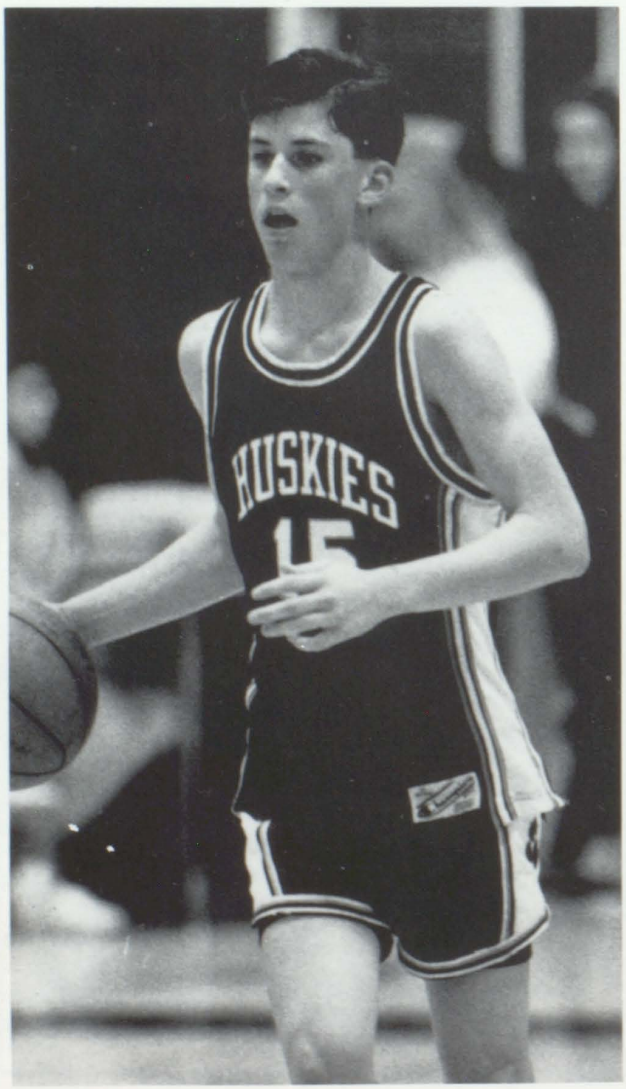
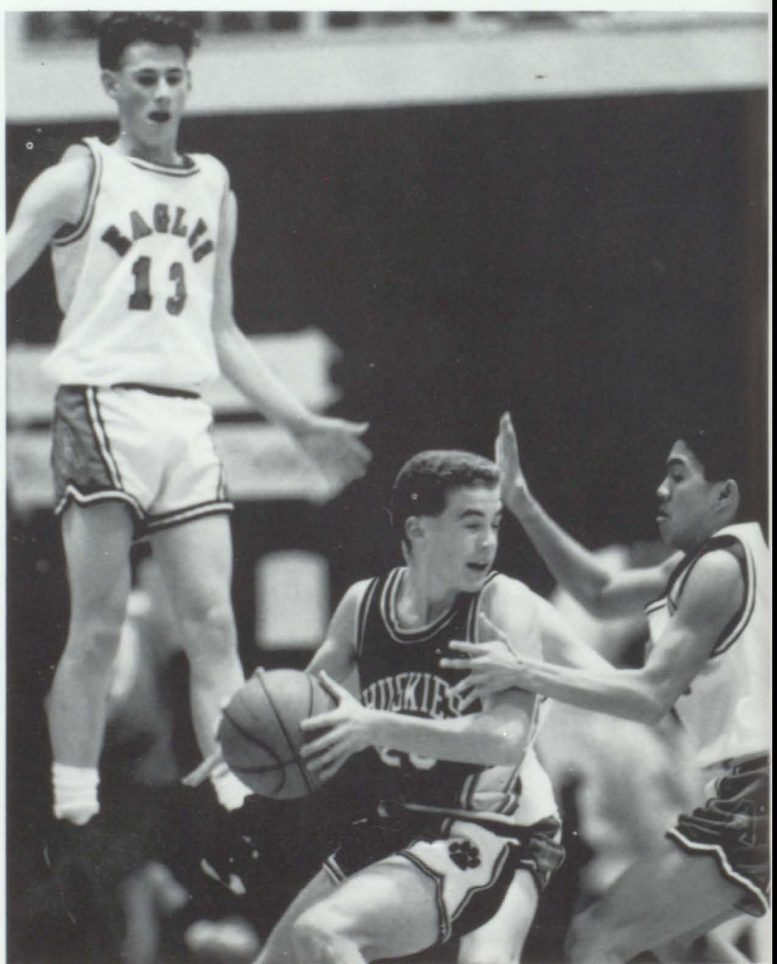
Top row: Gian Solari, Charlie Albertalli, Elliot Almeida, Jacob Aro, Jared Dewitt, Adam Hemmes, Todd Arias. Bottom row: Mike DeFreitas, Mark Gleason, Matt Bradley, Toby Vares, Paul Burgess, Vince McGautha, Matt Brooks.





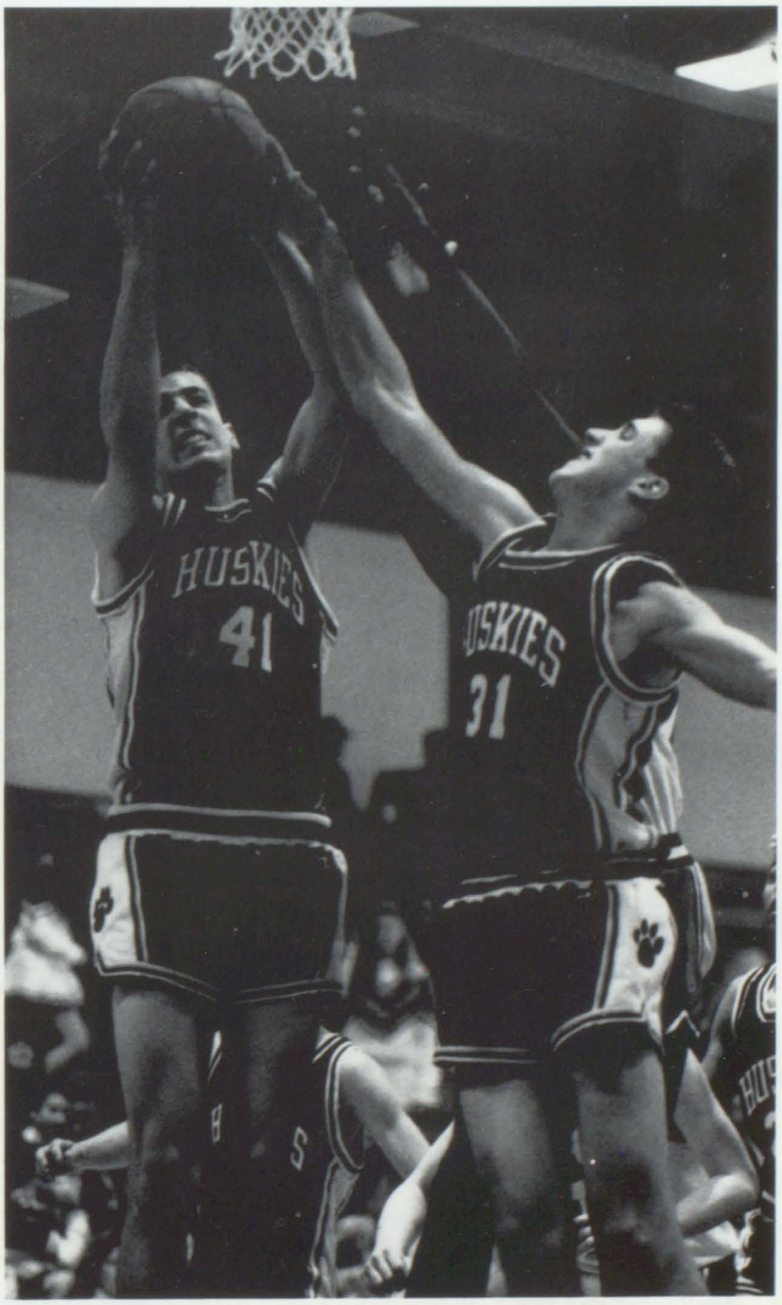
"Coach, can I stop dribbling now?" gasps Toby Vares.

Fairy dust sprinkled on the basketball teams allows #13 to fly and Paul Burgess to sprout another leg.

The junior varsity boys basketball team had a great season. With several returning players and a lot of potential, they started the season off with a bang. Sophomore Jacob Aro led the team in rebounds and top scorers included Paul Burgess and Toby Vares. With hard work from everyone on the team and a lot of cooperation, the junior varsity basketball team worked their way up and defended the Husky title with great pride. No matter how the season had ended, we would be proud of our team. Everyone on the team did a great job. We will all be looking forward to next year when once again husky power will dominate and the WHS legend of pride will live on.

"Look guys, I'm being arrested." says Gian Solari to his team members.

Concentrating on the next play is Vince McGautha.



"Wrong basket Jacob!" Charlie Albertalli tries to keep Jacob Aro from making a basket for the other team.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

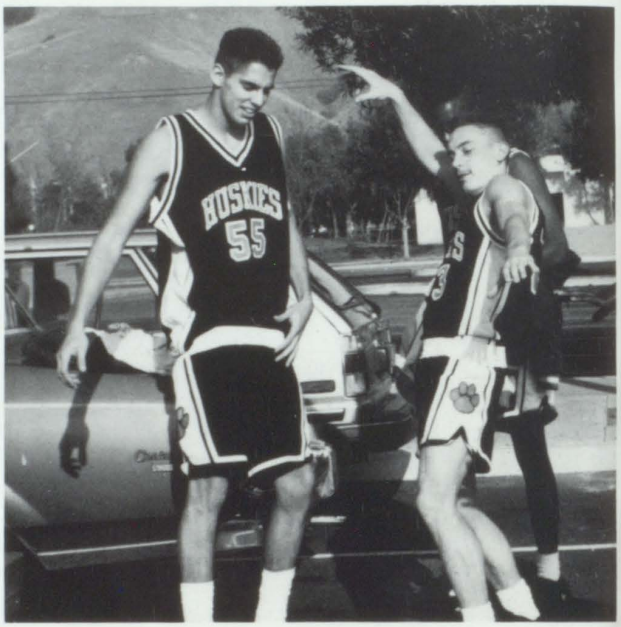
James Giacomazzi uses mental telepathy to make #24 fall asleep as Steve Glock grabs for the ball.

The opposing team is in awe as John Gallagher uses all of his strength to make the ball levitate one inch from his hands.

Junior James Giacomazzi and senior Justin Wright entertain the team with their amazing dancing ability.



Going to a Husky basketball game has always been exciting and this year is no exception. We have a great team and they are coming off of a Norcal Division III championship last year.

This year's team is led by senior Chuck Legan, who played a major role in last year's team. Other returning players from last year's varsity team include seniors Steve Glock and John Gallagher, and junior Aaron Lozano. With the help of these players and the ones up from junior varsity last year, the Huskies hope to dominate again this year.

Once again the Huskies play on the road for the whole season. As usual, they will have to put out an extra effort to be victorious without a home gym. But, no matter where they play they can be assured that their fans will be there thanks to the winning tradition of Husky basketball.

Seniors: Eric Love, Shannon Smith, Steve Glock, Chuck Legan, John Gallagher, Justin Wright, Sancho Martinez.

Kyle Barker has to tape his own hand as Coach Boggs is busy with someone else.

We catch Titus Addison as he and the rest of the team are forced to change in the parking lot of the Mormon church on Walnut.

Junior Aaron Lozano jumps in the air to block the Eagles attempt to score a basket.

Snaring the ball into his possession with the greatest of ease is Chuck Legan.

CHEER

Supporting our teams at Washington is the goal of the Washington cheerleaders. We're out there to let the players know that their student body stands behind them. But it should mean a lot more than that. It means being a part of a squad that works together to creatively initiate new ideas that can benefit school spirit and keep the crowd cheering at the big game. The rally squad of 91-92 continues the tradition of WHS spirit.

CROSS COUNTRY

SENIORS: Jennifer Malysiak, Mark Gelfuso, Masood Sarwari, Lawrence Walker, Peter Orsi, Alex Hansen

Michal Gregorini, wearing his trademark hat, holds his breath for the camera.

Not feeling so great after sprinting to catch an opponent at the Concord Invitational is junior Danielle Dowling.

Liz Mousourakis, one of the four runners in the four mile relay, works hard towards the finish. Her work is paid off when the girls varsity team took second place.

Cathi Fletcher seems to have other things on her mind besides the race she is running.

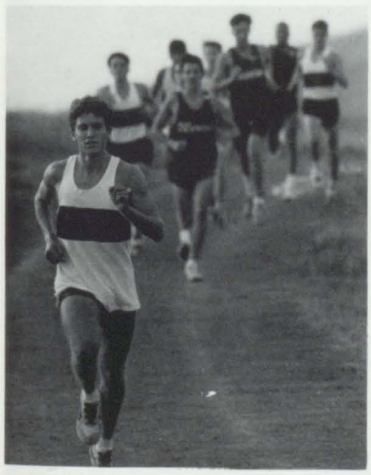
JV: Bottom-Christie Howe, Lisa Coutee, Claire Kabahit, Karrie Blakely, Amanda Finch, Andrew Zlatnick, Steve Duke; Top-Chris Silva, Frank Tsang, Greg Walsh, Brian Provenzale, Carolyn Coffman, Brooke Chapman

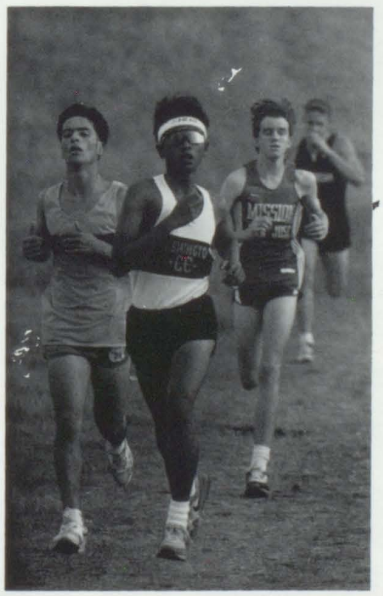
Claire Kabahit looks ahead to the finish line as she nears the end of the race.

Coach Yancy Young keeps his runners awake with great stories of his high school running career.



Freshman Lisa Coutee and Liz Hansen forget that cross-country is supposed to be hard as they grin for the camera.

Senior Alex Hansen leads a pack of runners at the league final race.



Willy Mene sports his lucky sunglasses and headband as he pulls ahead of the pack.

How many times have you been coming home from school, ready for a relaxing afternoon at home, when you see a pack of WHS students running down the street? What are they doing:? Why!

Everyday after school, the cross-country team meets at about three o'clock for practice. They have league meets on Thursdays, in which the JV runners do a two mile race, and varsity runs three miles. Obviously, to do this at the fast pace they run, it takes much practice. It means going on runs up to ten miles long, or doing grueling speed workouts on the track.

Why in the world do they do this? Most of the time, it isn't because they love running, but for the feeling of satisfaction and accomplihsment they get after they run. This feeling is strongest after doing well in a race, which motivates them to train hard in practice. This determination is what made both the girls and boys varsity teams to make it all the way to the NCS Meet of Champions.

The Washington Pups, with thrilling excitement, rejoice over their amazing victory.

With confirmed assurance, Carlos Pineda goes for the tackle.

With some slick moves, Toby Vares escapes the clutching grasps of the Vikings.

Troy Mosely fights viciously for a few extra yards.

The freshman pups had an outstanding season this year. They were co-champions of the now defunct M.V.A.L.. The freshman football team was only defeated once during league play. With an exquisite running and passing attack, the freshman football team pummelled over every opponent they met on the field of battle. It looks as if Washington football has a bright and lucrative future. Coach Ingram should be able to cast these young pups into a new breed of football player. YEAH PUPS!

"What are ya thinkin'?" asks the coach as slaps Esam Dawudi on the head.

Brent Dickerson listens intently as he gets a few helpful tips from the coach.

Justin Holland gets crushed under a swarm of tacklers.

"I think I got it, . . I think I got it . . . " yells Marvin Love as he reaches for the flying ball.

Todd Arias shows his might as he brings down another Viking victim.

Followed by a plethora of Vikings, Tommy Rehberg vows to reach the goal.

A lost and confused Brian Gelfuso wonders where the rest of his team is.

The vicious Junior Varsity football team rampaged through the M.V.A.L.'s final year with a fierce determination. They were defeated only once during league play. They will prove to be a vital asset on next year's Varsity team. With a killer defense and an omnipotent offense the J.V. team annihilated almost every opposing team that got in their way. This years J.V. team will have the aptitude and aspiration to become Washington's next heroes. ALL RIGHT J.V.! SEE YA NEXT YEAR!

VARSITY FOOTBALL

A: ATTITUDE ... P: PRACTICE ... E: EXECUTION ... This years theme held true for the Huskies as they played their last season in the now disbanded M.V.A.L.. This year they did it all. We got back the "Pop" Gould trophy by defeating the Logan Colts by sound 29 to nothing score. Coach Ingram led his fierce warriors into battle capturing the league title and becoming co-champs of the M.V.A.L.. Washington was also the first school to win an M.V.A.L. championship when the league was first formed. By becoming champions they gained a play off berth into the N.C.S.. The winning streak ended with a bitter loss to De La Salle in the second round of the play offs. WAY TO GO GUYS!

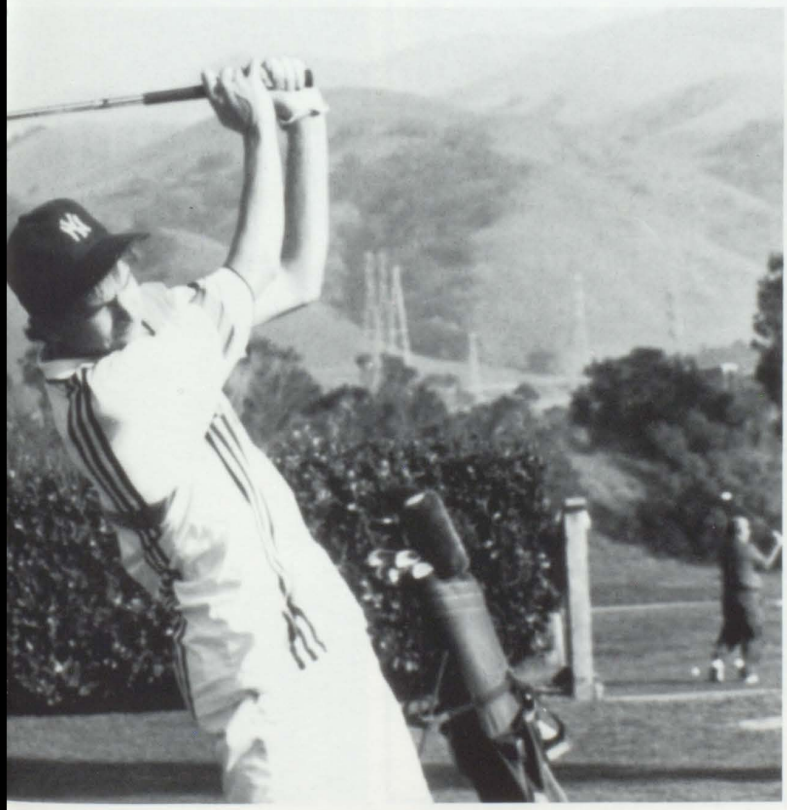
"Oops I missed the hole again" sighs Marc Perkins.

"Yeah, I finally hit the ball" exclaims Dom Obie.

"I'm going to get you this time" says Dan DeCosta to the golf ball.



If you are looking for a challenge without the competition of a team sport you might want to look into golf. It is a sport where you provide all the skill. There are no fellow teammates to pass the ball to. You, alone, must get the ball to the hole. There are sand traps and the rough standing in your way. Every hole provides a different challenge and every stroke requires a unique skill. Mr. Hankin is the coach for the Husky Golf team. He coaches them on the skill they will need to surpass other teams on the golf course.

GYMNASTICS

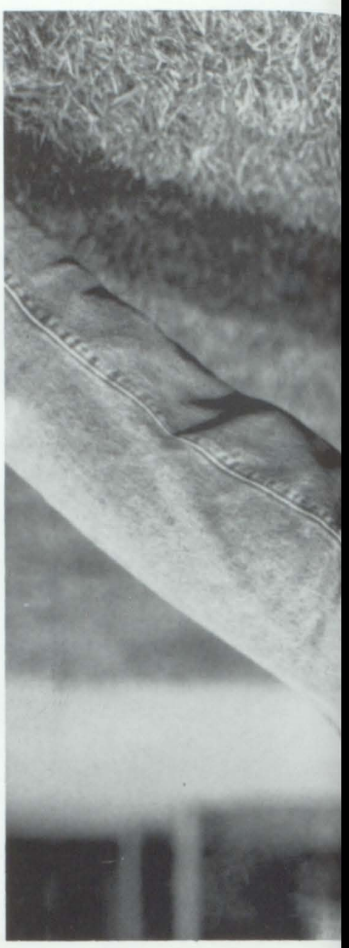
Varsity: Julie Delrio, Aimee Little, Chrystie Cobet, Tania Makki, Emily Sanson

J.V.: Soomie Chun, Bonnie Nishihara, Joan Puim, Laura Clements



Senior Bonnie Nishihara (a.k.a. Spider Woman) hangs from the top of the world.

Coach Freitas congratulates Joanie Puim after she placed 8th at MVALs in the JV division. This moves Joan up to the Varsity division automatically next year.

This years gymnastics team was met with many obstacles. With only nine members on JV and Varsity, every score counted Midway through the season the Varsity team lost a key member, Tania Makki to a knee injury, leaving both teams with only four people.

But in the end the girls pulled together and with spirit and determination were able to improve throughout the season. One girl from each division (JV, Varsity, and Elite) did well enough at league finals to qualify for all league, and the varsity squad landed second place in the MVAL.

Seniors- Julie Delrio, Emily Sanson, Bonnie Nishihara, Laura Clements

Senior Emily Sanson strikes a pose

"Everything's upside down, it's a topsy turvy world," exclaims Tania Makki.

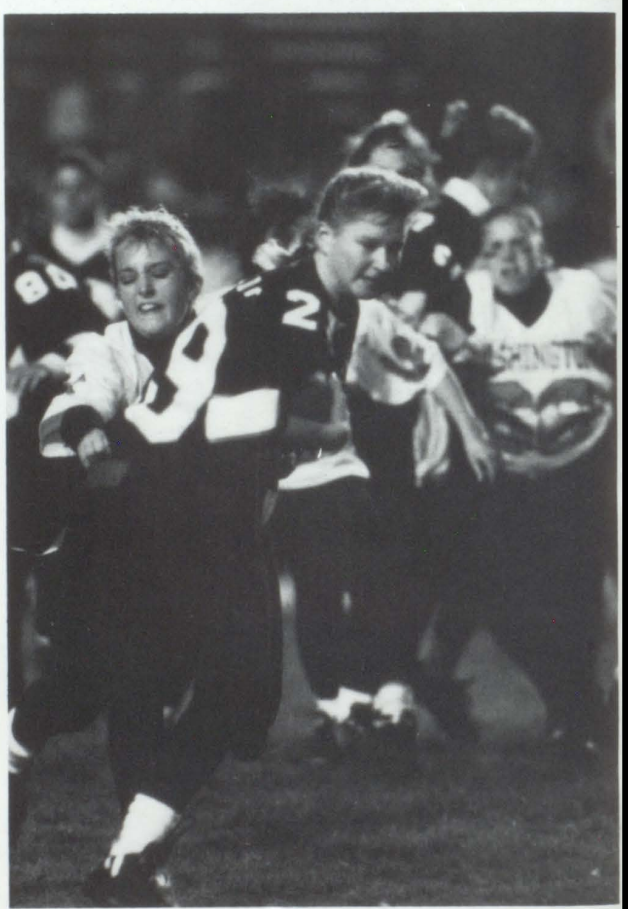
As soon as winter break ended and we all returned to school, you may have noticed about eighty girls gathering out on the field. Dressed in shorts, Tee-shirts, sweats, and sweatshirts were the junior and senior girls practicing once again for the annual Powderpuff game.

They may have had a few problems during the scrimmage, one week before the actual game, but when game time came, everyone put everything aside and just concentrated on winning.

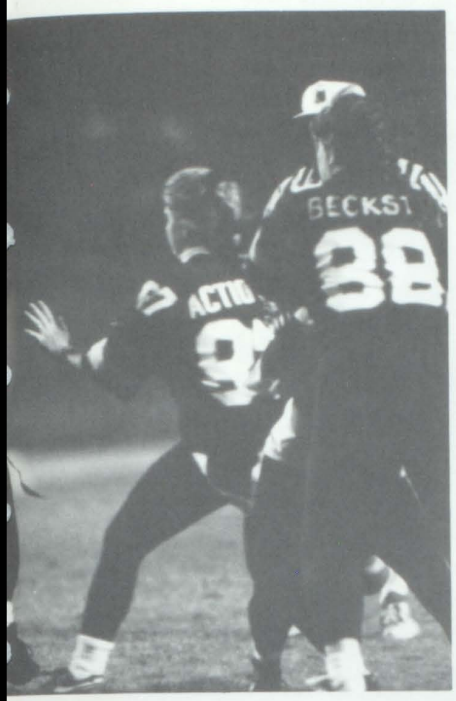
One touchdown was made during the game by Steph Schaffer, a senior. This made the score 6-0 with the seniors having 6 points. The score remained the same until the end of the game. Making the Seniors the 1992 Powderpuff champions. Congratulations Class of 1992 for being the two-time winner.



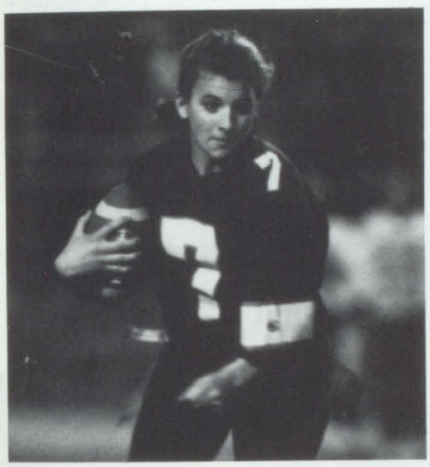
Junior Kim Alred tries to run for the flag, but is not fast enough for senior Jenny Malysiak.

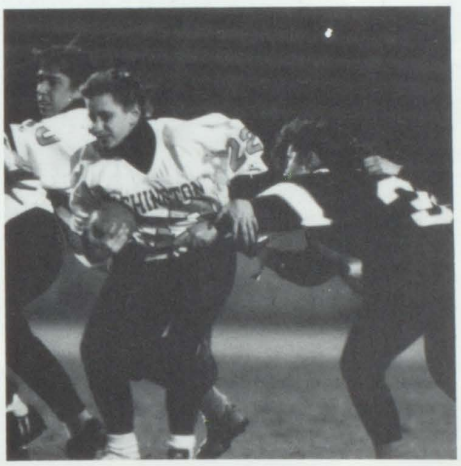
Junior quarterback Vanessa Marchis displays her powderpuff talent to all of us.

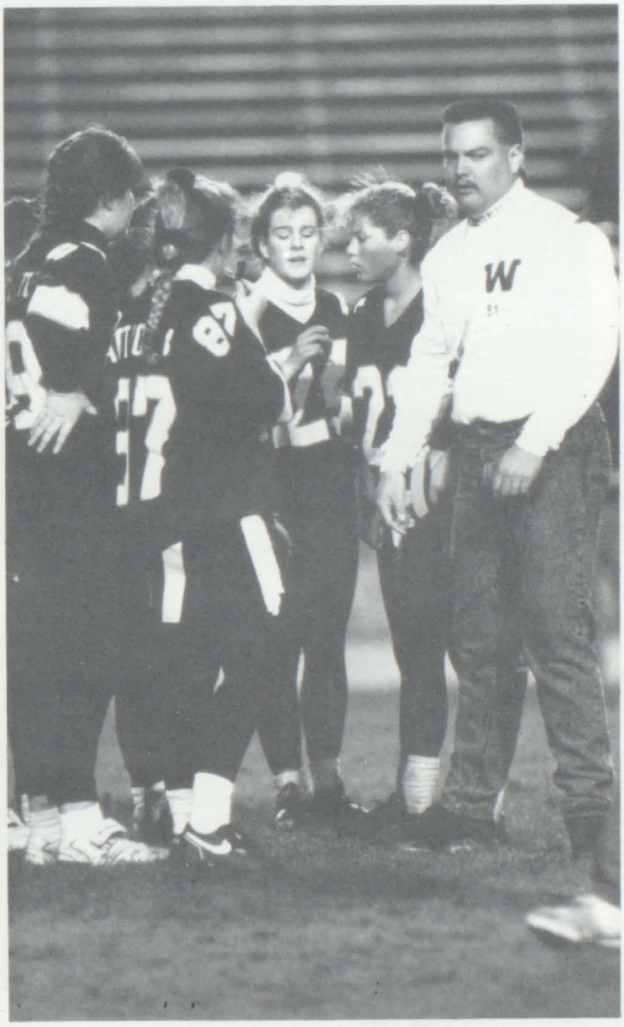
Heather Goodwin is shown squinting her eyes with anger, as Tracey "Action" Jackson jumps in front of her to stop her.



COACHES: Harold Trias, Manny Gonzalez, Rick Tong, Jason Colon, Alex Reyes, Jonathon Arguello, Jeremy Alter, Phil Singh, Brian Gelfuso, Jeremy Montoya, Darren Hiller, Steve Fernandez. ROW ONE: Natalie Young, Angie LaRue, Tera Krochak, Tanda Muridica, Jennifer Paulson, Aimee Little, Trisha Wong, Tania Makki







Katie Hadley dashes down the field gaining as much yardage as she possible can.

"Argh" hollers the juniors and seniors as they wait to attack each other.

"I think I can, I think I can," thinks Tanda Murdica as she breaks through a line of seniors.

The seniors gather together to discuss their game plan.

POWDERPUFF CHEER

"I'm too sexy . . . " This year's crowd at the annual Powderpuff game was utterly entertained during the entire game by the sexy and seductive cheerleading squads. This year's set of sensuous girls (?) gyrated their shapely thighs while the crowd screamed for more.

Contrary to popular belief, the Powderpuff cheerleaders work just as hard as the football players. Hours of strenuous and tedious work goes into the elaborate halftime production. Much time is needed (about three days) to organize and perfect the final performance. Not only do the cheerleaders have to synchronize their movements and steps, they also perform dangerous stunts such as flips and trustfalls. Music also has to be prepared. It must be reproduced to high quality so that it will be able to play on the high-tech sound system in the stadium.

All in all it take a lot of time, money, and patience to become an infamous Powderpuff cheerleader. Not to mention the incredible amount of courage it takes to become a transvestite, dress up in your mother's clothing and make-up, blow up balloons for breasts, and shake your little tush til it hurts in front of grandma. Thanks guys . . . or should I say gals.

Yeah! We Didn't mess up that much! Excitement fills the hearts of these energetic cheerleaders after the explosive finale of their half-time routine.

Junior Brian Williams catches air during halftime of the powderpuff game.

Junior cheerleaders get psyched up before the powderpuff teams return to the field.

After four days of choreographing, music editing, and late rehearsals comes the real thing. The Senior Powder Puff Cheerleaders are ready to justify their love.

While others vogue to the music, Samir Patel concentrates on keeping his balance before the trustfall.

The hardest part of dancing like girls is keeping in sync with each other. Junior Powder Puff Cheerleaders seem to have run into a little problem.

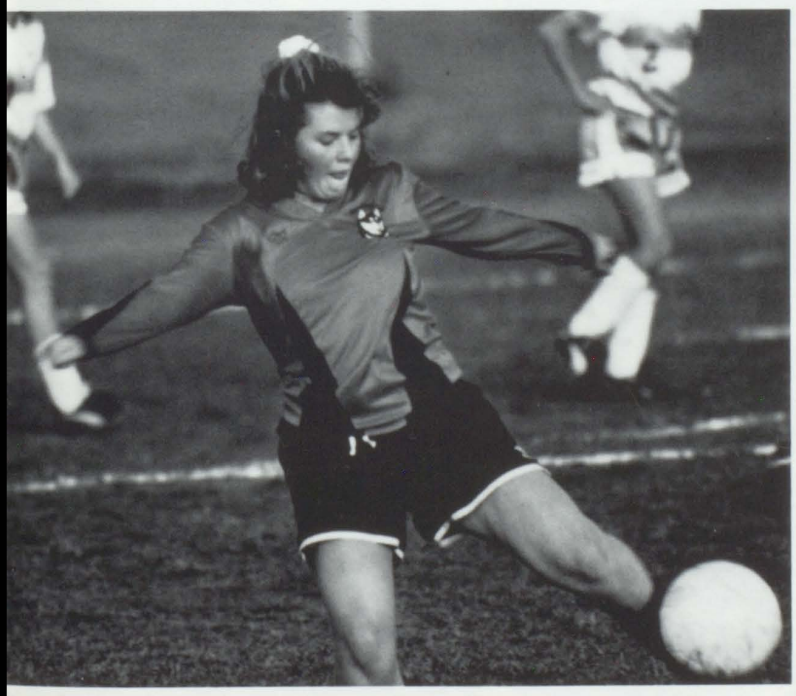
Fullback Christine Fern, a member of the great Husky defense, clears the ball away from the Mission attacker. Nice kick.

Carla Santos, one of our talented midfielders, prepares to send the ball to a Washington forward.



Erin Todd takes time out in the Mission game to show the crowd her newest balancing act, while a Mission player approaches.

Katie Frazier fights aggressively for the ball while Megan Nelson watches.

There are several ingredients to a great soccer team that consist of not only extraordinary athletic ability, but also hard work, determination, pride, and teamwork. The 1992 Varsity Girls Soccer team was definitely all these things and much more. They proved this by greatly improving from last year to finish in second lace in the M.V.A.L. this year. They showed opposing teams a combination of experienced veterans and a great batch of young talent. The new coaching staff also did a magnificent job picking up last year's team and putting this years team together so quickly. This year's team showed a lot of team spirit and heart which carried them through intense situations and proved to be a winning combination. Terrific job on the 1992 season and good luck next year Huskies!

What's up with that Darren Boddy? "My head is shrinking, my head is shrinking!"

Using all his concentration and energy, Kevin Schultz has complete control over the destiny of the ball.

Varsity Boys Soccer gains in prestige every year. Each season more spectators show up for rival games against Logan and Mission. Under Head Coach, Jerry Josson, the Huskies Soccer program has solidified. The second year coach from Hayward plans to stay at Washington and keep the tradition of excellence.

Fans of the sport flock the sidelines to watch some hard hitting battle led by David Rosa and Darren Boddy in the back. Up front Aaron Lafar adds speed and quickness and always a threat on goal. With seven other seniors including Stephan Gibanescu, Matt Severson, Joe Severson, Corey Parello, and Farhad Ghaddousi, the team shows lots of experience and desire. This year the huskies clinched a spot in the MVAL Shaunassey and showed great potential in again going to NCS.

"Is it a UFO, is it a Blimp ... Oh my gosh, what is that round object!" screams frantic Joe Severson as someone passes him the ball.

Near the opponents goal, Corey Parello battles the defender for possession of the ball.

SOFTBALL

It's springtime again and the girls softball team is back with their coach Mrs. Dean. The season has started off with rainy weather but we're all sure that they will prevail.

Mrs. Dean's goal is to develop a solid system of communication between the members of the team. With this in mind and a lot of Husky spirit, there is no doubt that their goals will be reached.

This years Varsity team is shaped up and ready to go out into the field with a winning attitude. The Junior Varsity is just as ready and hopes to have a great season as well.

This year when the swimming season came around our swim team was greeted with a new pool, well, almost new, the old pool was resurfaced, retiled, and a new heater was put in, all paid for by the district. With the improved pool came many girls who wanted to be on the first girls swim team to swim in the pool. Our girls practiced hard under the direction and leadership of Coach Tom Wilson, and seniors, Shannon Gravelle, Amy Pyles, and Becky Baker. Our girls were very competitive in both league and nonleague meets. J.V. and varsity have shown the dedication, hard work, and spirit that make Washington the fine school that it is. With these characteristics we can make excellence at Washington High School last through the years. Way to go girls!

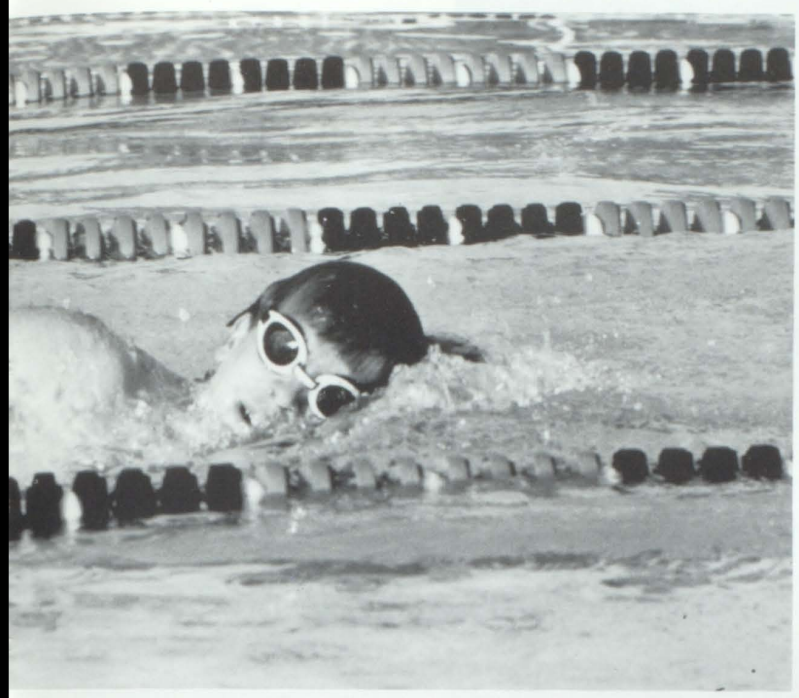
Chris Olson demonstrates his perfect form in the butterfly.



Washington's Varsity and Junior Varsity boys swim teams are well on their way to a successful season with a talented and experienced returning squad, and much new talent. The Washington Dogfish are sure to come out on top.

With their own pool once again, the Washington Boys' Swim Team started this season once again feeling like a team. With nearly all of our strongest swimmers returning from last year's team, the Huskies were looking once again to place high in the MVAL standings.

At first, they had one more obstacle to overcome though. They had no starting blocks, so they did what any swimmer or group of swimmers would do — they swam for them. All night long, the guys and girls swim teams were swimming laps to raise the much needed money, and nearly 18 hours after it started, the Swim-a-thon raised enough money for the blocks. Along with the grueling workouts that coach Don French prepared each day, the Husky boys swimmers were able to have a lot of fun. You could always count on them for an original cheer at every meet.

SENIORS: Mike Fauver, Dmitry Tsvetov, Darren Boddy, Jeff Bryant, Will Raby, David Duke, Mark Stewart

GIRLS TENNIS

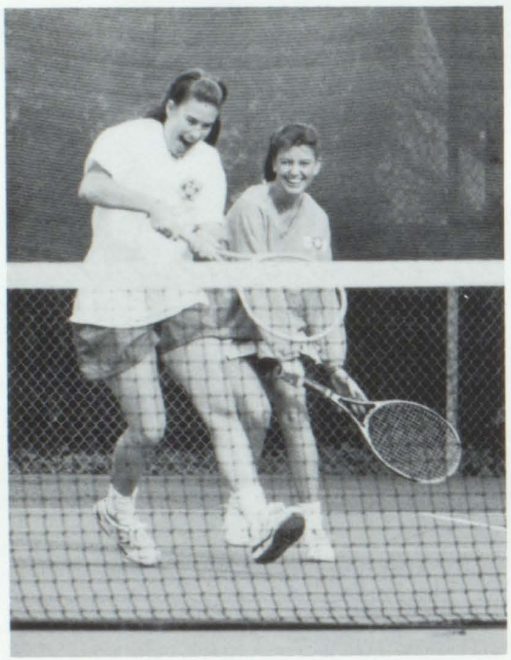
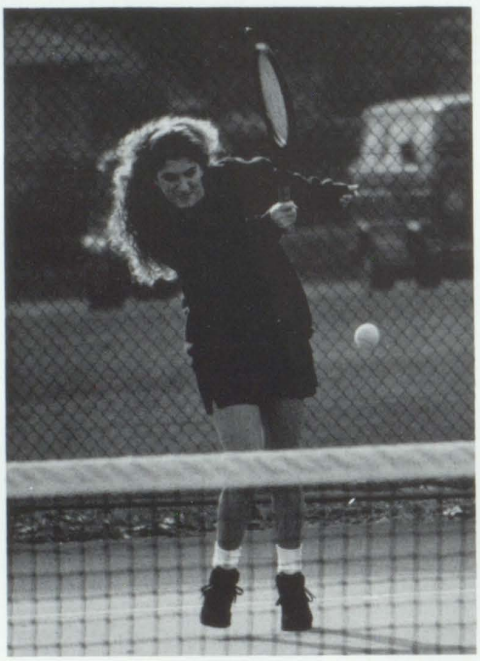
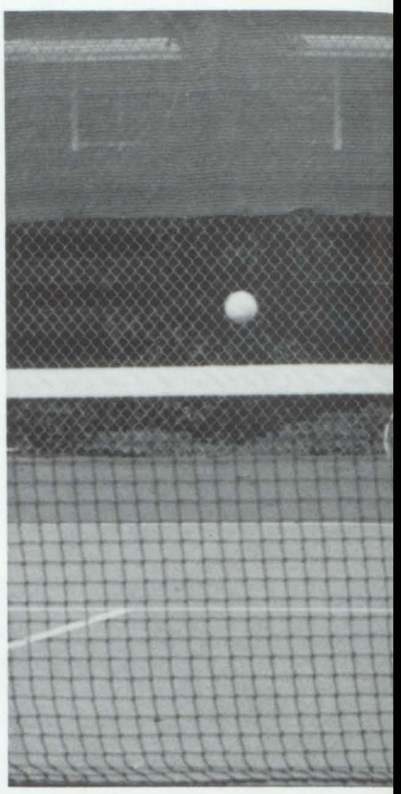
Seniors: Sara Lujan, Lisa Olson, Tracy Jackson, and horizontal Jenny Olson



Michelle Keller and Jennifer Olson, stop having so much fun!



Another stunning return made by Lisa Olson.

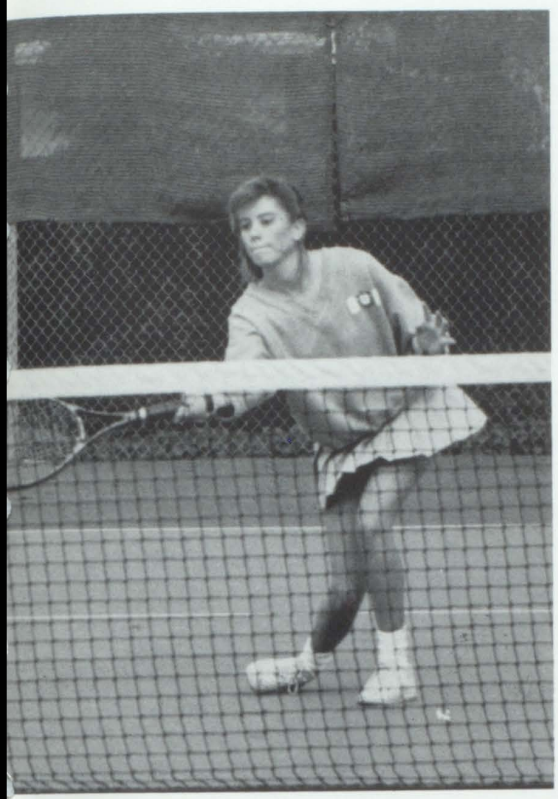


Tonica Hunter poises in midair ready to volley the ball over the net.

With only two returning Varsity players and a new coach one would have guessed that Washington's 1991-92 season record would have suffered. But the fledgling team proved its worth when they came in third after a season of exceptional Husky vitality, unity and determination. Players like Sara Lujan who made the spot for #1 doubles after joining the team for the first time as a Senior came together with veteran players like Michelle Keller to form a strong team that truly represents Husky power.

The Girls' Tennis team was one of the fortunate sports that was able to enjoy the comforts of home on Washington's very own courts. Next year promises to be even better for our Husky girls.

Precision and concentration are the only things on Jennifer Olson's mind as she swings.



JV: (in no order whatsoever) Amy Kirby, Jeannie Chun, Lauren Henderson, Tonica Hunter, Jennifer Boddy, Michelle Shih, Molly Kirby, Jeanna Lee, Yolanda Lee, Joyce Lee, Mia Dalisay, Nilofer Rahimi, Roselle Ponsaran, Jennifer Watanabe, Zipporah Ross.

BOYS TENNIS

Underneath the collared shirts and pressed shorts, tennis is a rough, hard hitting, strategic battle. The Huskies, coached by Keith Kato, enjoyed a third place finish last year. This year with seven returning varsity players and a freshman to fill one of the spots the boys tennis team is anticipating an exciting year. Coach Kato is especially pleased with his team.

The Huskies battle line consists of seven seniors who will use their skills to upset opponents. Using the forehand, backhand, volley, serves, and smashes the tennis genius exploits the weakness of the foe. Tennis is often thought of as an intellectual sport, which it is, but it also requires top physical condition. This comes from running the two miler, and constant wind sprints in practice.

Adam "Smoke" Christensen, with his two foot fro, reaches down to get a low forehand.

"I'll get the next one," thinks Bryon "Ace" Broumond as he slashes his racket through the air.

Jose Angulo does his best Carl Lewis impersonation in front of the girls, Jolie Gentry and Patricia Jacinto.

Track and Field is by far the most diverse sport at WHS. It has a wide spectrum of events, ranging from the 100 meter dash to the 2 mile run, from the shot put to the pole vault. It has something for everyone to enjoy.

The head coach of the team this year is Bob Springer, who is backed by distance coach Yancy Young, hurdle coach Jerome Beardon, and jump coach Bernard North. Mr. Springer was the shot put and discus coach last year, and will do it again this year along with his head coaching duties.

This year, Mr. Springer is running a much more disciplined team compared to the years past. He feels that this is the key to success. The ones who can take it and come to all the practices will be the ones who really want to win out there on the track.

WATER POLO

"O.K. guys! This one's about a Russian and an American . . . " jokes Dmitry Tsvetov.

Darren Boddy surfaces with the ball, ready to shoot.

Suddenly, a hand pops out of the water and grabs Ben Rezentes, causing him to lose control of the ball.

ALTHOUGH Water Polo has not yet been officially recognized as a MVAL sport, the team overcame many trials to have another fun year. Traveling all over the East Bay, they played such teams as Alameda, Encinal, Salesian, San Ramon, and California High School in the East Shore Athletic League (ESAL).

Practices were also held all over the place since there wasn't a pool at Washington due to the construction of the new gym. Ohlone College and Irvington were nice enough to let them use their facilities during the grueling workouts.

All you need to play this exciting sport is a couple of tough swimsuits, a cap, a ball, some courage, and a lot of skill. Water Polo combines aspects of soccer, basketball, football, rugby, as well as the obvious sport — swimming. It's a lot rougher than it looks out in the water since there are virtually no rules below the water line. As long as you don't drown someone, interfere with play, or aren't seen, the referee won't call a foul. This makes the sport both fun and challenging.

Washington's Water Polo team again played to yet another unchallenged MVAL title. Congratulations on another exciting and fun-filled year.

"I have to make the shot! I have to make the shot! . . . " thinks David Duke.

Mike Fauver fires another ball toward the goal.

WRESTLING

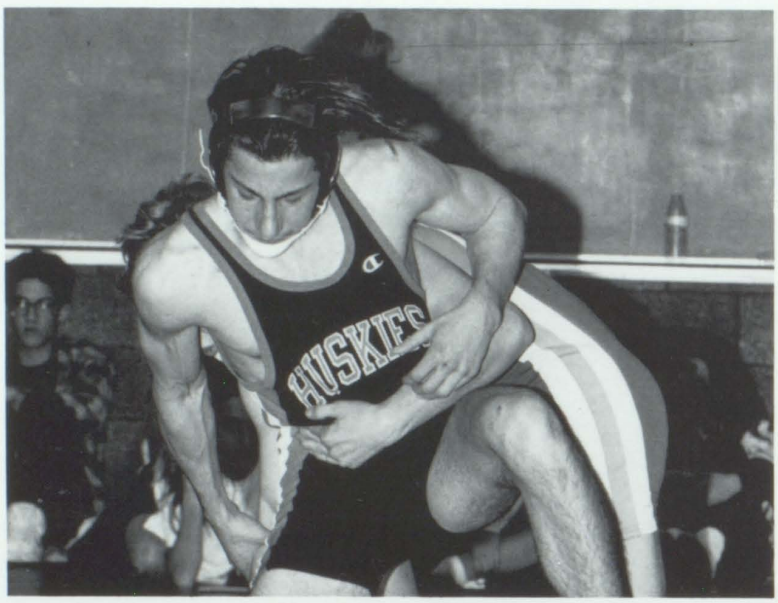
The Washington wrestling team has improved greatly from last year. Still without adequate facilities the wrestling team continues to improve and win games. Co-captain and Senior Michael Williamson has already won four matches to date and he says the future for the entire wrestling team looks bright. Michael Williamson also states that the progression of returning wrestlers such as Mike Peters and Co-Captain David Steinert appears to be promising to the future of wrestling at Washington. With the completion of sufficient facilities this spring one never knows how much the Washington wrestling team will improve. Until then we can only hope for the best this year. With so much young talent and promising facilities the Washington wrestling team should continue to improve. Don Darao, a 1991 Washington graduate, also returned this year to assist in coaching.



Co-captain Mike Williamson watches intently as his fellow teammates grind the other team.

Ciro Contreras shows his incredible strength as he viciously pins his squirming craven emulator.

ACTIVITIES

Once Again For The Very First Time

101

Students at Washington High School have discovered a third part of school besides sports and an education, that is the many activities that school can provide. Activities are very enjoyable to the students because they give kids a chance to socialize, make new friends, and show their school spirit. The many activities that Washington High School provides is one of the biggest reasons why it is the great school that it is.

By far the most energetic and time consuming activity of the year is held in October, it's called Spirit Week. Throughout the week students of every class dress up to show school spirit and unity. Each has three dress-up days, a skit day, where they put together an elaborate skit for the students and judges, and finally orange and black day for the whole school. This is all in preparation for the Homecoming game and dance where Mr. Husky, Homecoming Queen, and spirit week winners will be announced.

Monthly dances also contribute to the feeling of friendship and school spirit felt at Washington. We kicked off the year with the Hello Dance in September. Next we had the Homecoming Dance, followed by the Winter Ball. The Sadie Hawkins Dance brings a refreshing change with the girl ask-a-guy theme. In February sweethearts are made at the Valentine's Dance. The year is ended with the Junior Prom and Senior Ball. Dances provide a social opportunity outside of the everyday school routine and build lasting relationships.

Lunchtime activities provide games, contests and clubs where students can have fun while developing skills and showing spirit. These activities include rallies, a costume contest, a pumpkin carving contest, prom fashion shows, messy games, air band, and much much more.

HELLO DANCE

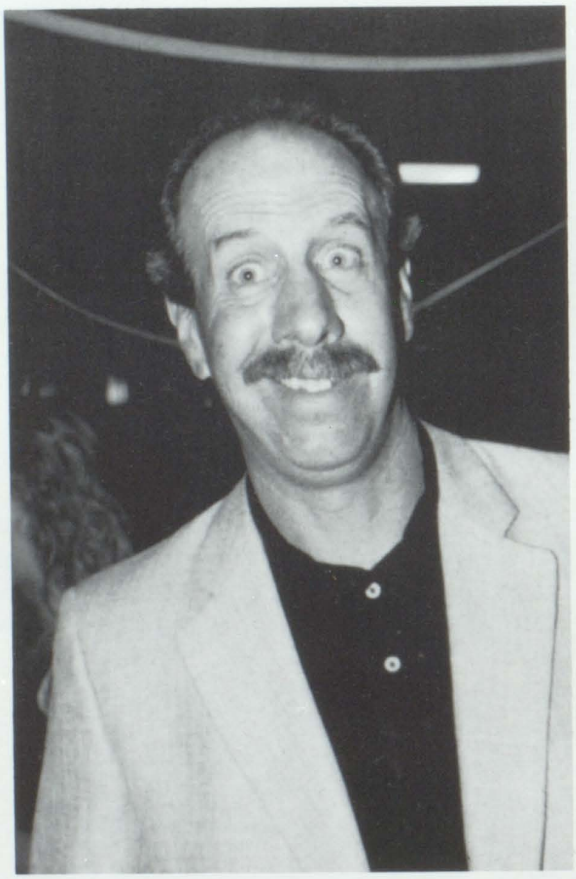
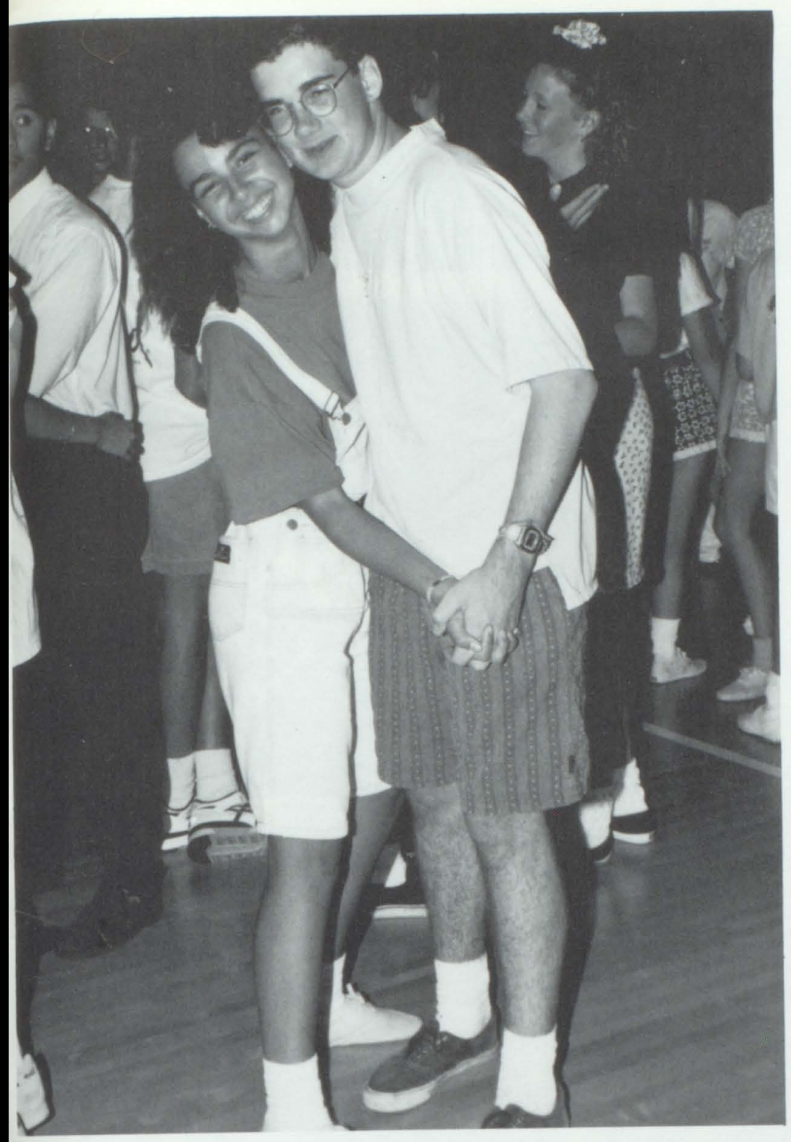
Kelly Hsu and Andy Stonas dance to a slow song as he whispers words of passion in her ears.



Mike Janov, Sean Kelly, Gina Cater, and their friend Juan relax while Kris Godleskey is getting his ears cleaned.

"Can I do what? The Lambada?" exclaims Mr. Wallach.



HI HOLA BONJOUR KAMUSTA PRIVET OHIO GOZA-MASCU GUTENTAG ZDRAVO NAMASCAR KEMCHOW MABUHAYA CIAO UUNCHA MAR-HABA YASOU ALOHA NA-MASTE SATSHRI AKAL

These were just a few ways Washington's diverse students greeted the new 1991-1992 school year and each other at the Hello Dance. This successful dance welcomed old students and new freshmen to Washington for the 101st year. "The Pride is Back" was evident at this kick-off event with the dance floor of the Community Center packed with eager students. What better way to let off steam and stress from the first weeks of school than dancing "all night long"? No matter if you say HOLA, BONJOUR, or just plain HOWDY, all can be understood with a friendly smile here at Washington. So Huskies say HELLO to the 1991-1992 year, a year to be proud of!

Do Melisa Guzman and John Eads look like they're having fun or what?

"No one wants to dance with me!" says Phil Singh as Noele Ghaith and Tonica Hunter go on with their conversation.

"I'm not letting this knee stop me," says Lorrie Churma to Elaine Wong, Andrea Aro, and Margot Elliott.

Did Quinta Douglas and Korey Dawson plan their outfits together or was it just by coincidence?

FRESHMAN

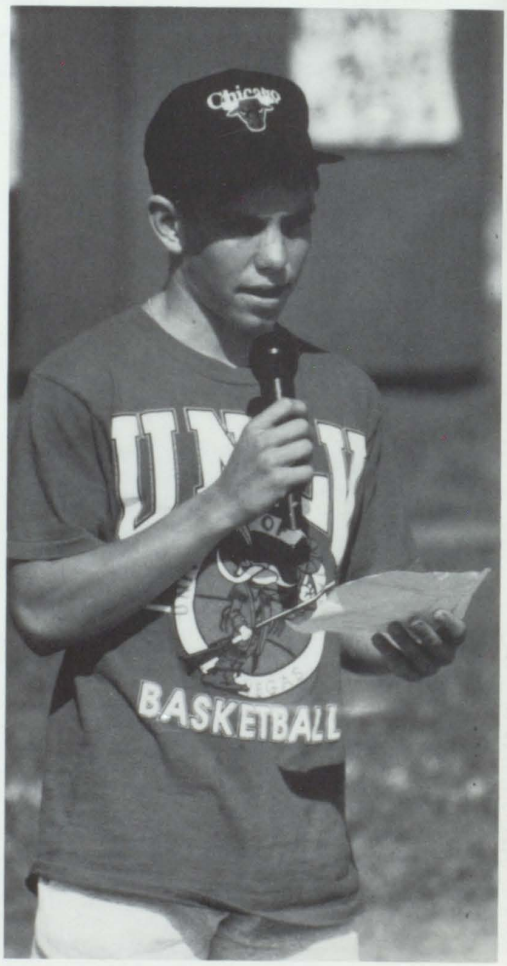
"Somewhere over the rainbow, skies are blue, there is a place I have dreamed of where dreams really do come true." After falling asleep in class, Dorothy realized that her and Hank weren't in Huskyland anymore. Dorothy knew she had to get back into Huskyland in time to find the missing spirit for the Homecoming game against Irvington, but how? After the good witch placed Husky slippers on her feet, Dorothy and Hank made their way down the orange brick road where they met up with the Blond Spirit. Slowly, the three of them made their way through the Viking forest. But no sooner did they enter it, when the evil Viking witch and all of her gang stole the Blond Spirit and surrounded Hank and Dorothy. To save herself and Hank, Dorothy sprayed the evil Viking witch causing her to melt and die. But Dorothy was still not happy so when she met up with the good witch, she asked her, "Where is my spirit and how do I get back to Huskyland?" The good witch replied, "The spirit has always been with you, you just weren't aware of it. Just click your Husky slippers three times and you will be home." Dorothy woke up just in time to realize the Huskies had won their homecoming game.

Aside from their skit on Wednesday, the Husky puppies proved the pride was back by dressing up throughout the week. On Monday, sweatshirts, socks, t-shirts were worn inside out for "Inside Out" day. Farmer day followed. Overalls, straw hats, and cowboy boots were seen all over the place. Thursday, was beach bum day. The Freshman paraded around in shorts, coconut oil, sunscreen, and other beach paraphernalia. On Friday, the Husky puppies joined the school in orange and black indicating the Pride is Back.



With no previous experience the freshman class tackled the complications of Spirit Week with finesse. At the Homecoming Rally, they displayed their spirit proving the Pride is Back.

Though Spirit Week takes a lot of energy, Barbi Pagan and Heather Fernandes show there is always energy left for friendship.

And the M.C. for the freshman skit was Vincent Murdica. Here Vincent is shown rehearsing his script for showtime.

With pride evident in her face, Joby Sandoval thinks of the upcoming game against the Irvington Vikings.

Spirit Week

Smile, Freshman class President, you are on Candid Camera! Van Nguy proved that having a sunny disposition helps ease nerves right before the skit.

Leader of the pack, Kevin Schultz sits on his BMX while being surrounded by his adoring fans, Kelly Kennedy, Vicki Sideris, Tracy Colon, Gina Cater, Marianne Marchetti, Twana Silva, and Jessica Leonhardt.

Allison Louie and Lisa Coutee not only complete their job in the skit but they also watch the Freshman skit simultaneously.

"Ding Dong the Mission Warrior is dead, the Mission Warrior is dead," sing the Munchkins during the Freshman skit.

"You can't hurt Hank or have my Husky slippers!," exclaims Dorothy (Brooke Chapman) as she sprays the evil Viking witch (Megan Nelson) from Irvington.

Two members of the Viking forest, Misty Goodson and Amber Bodily watch over the grave of the evil Viking witch.

SOPHOMORE

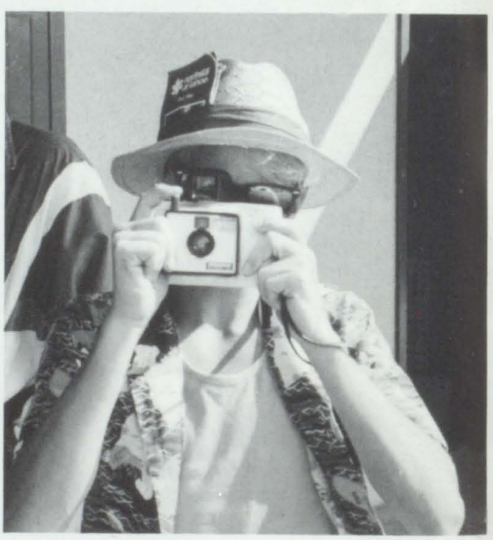
The Sophomore class of 1994, in an attempt to win the spirit week trophy, developed a skit entitled: Hank around the U.S.. The skit's main plot was for Hank the Huskie to recapture the stolen Huskie spirit. In the first scene Hank appears at a rally which is lacking the normal Washington spirit and enthusiasm. The Head Cheerleader takes Hank aside and explains the situation. She relates the story of how the Irvington Viking, Erik, came and stole their spirit. Just then the mailman arrives with the mail. Hank receives a postcard from Erik which was meant as a distraction, but actually ended up being a big hint. The waves and sand alluded to Hawaii so that is where Hank went. Once in Hawaii he again receives a postcard that leads him to a casino in Las Vegas. After similar experiences in Las Vegas and Texas Hank ends up in New York where he meets the Viking himself. Hank shows his superiority by knocking Erik out cold and taking the spirit of the Huskies back. Upon arriving at Tak Stadium Hank finds the Huskies down by three in the final seconds of the game. He sprinkles the spirit on all the Huskie fans and players just in time for the quarterback to score the winning touchdown. The Huskies had won and the spirit of Washington High School had survived another year.

The skit was a success which made spirit week incredibly close. The Sophomore class also showed lots of spirit during the rest of the week at rallies and with dress up days like Cowboy day, Tourist day, Hawaiian day and of course Orange and Black day.

Shantell Garza is apparently displeased with the reaction of the crowd during the Junior Skit.



Cowgirls Lisa Braastad, Mercy Walcoff, Geraldine Hartkamp, Amy Antle, Carla Santos, Melissa Heyd, Mandy Miller, Kristen Gould, and Zipporah Ross gather during brunch.

"Smile," says Cliff Jerolds on tourist day.

Despite all the competition Jaime Hunt and Jill Reynolds are partners to the end. Well, that is, as long as it's Cowboy day.

Spirit Week

Orange and black enthusiasts Randy Koller and Kevin Godlesky strut their stuff on the final day of spirit week. Showing some of that genuine Sophomore spirit.

With Attitude, Practice and Execution Todd Aries, Mike Quigley, and Gian Solari get psyched for the big game versus the Vikings of Irvington.

Liz Peterson, Jennifer Hall, and Carey Moyles dance on stage to entertain our hero. Las Vegas was only one stop on Hank's quest to recover the stolen spirit.

Deep in the heart of Texas, Hank gets to view a western square dance. Here Noele Ghaith, and Joanne Tiehl, look on while Mindy Lynch prepares to dance.

With the returned spirit Quarterback Jamie Britto scores the winning TD., behind blockers Randy Koller and Mike Visconty. The Huskies win the Homecoming game.

JUNIOR

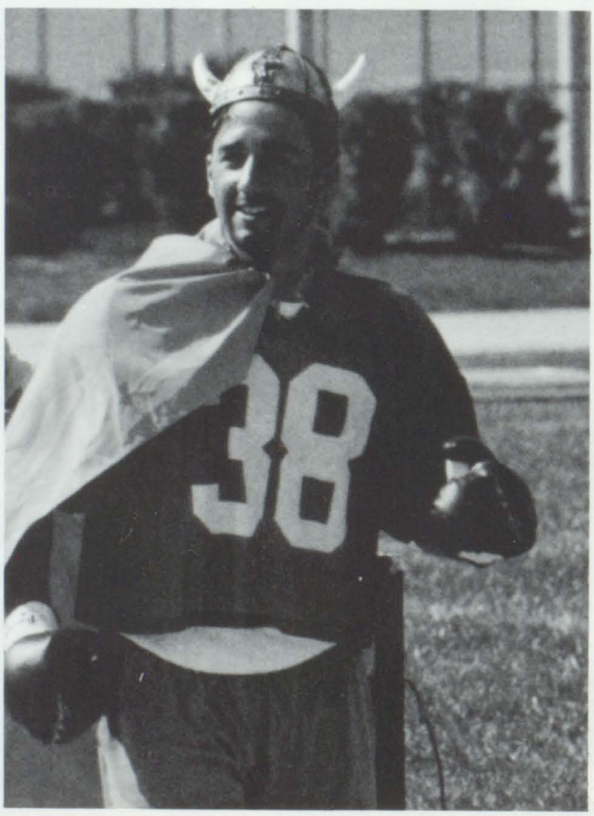
Kelly Smith uses Flower Power to radiate her Husky spirit for the junior class.

Groovy juniors strike a 60's revival peace rally during the senior skit. Hippies forever brother!

For two years straight, the class of 1993 has taken second place in the spirit week competition. This year, the JUNIOR skit was full of spirit and creativity. In the husky olympics, there were various events that the huskies had to win over Irvington. These events were things such as a tug-of-war, a pie throwing contest, and boxing between Hank and the Irvington Viking. Having people come from the stands to compete was a very creative idea.

During the week, the JUNIORS showed their enthusiasm dressed in hippie clothes, the traditional orange and black, army clothes, and the very effective patriotic day. Wearing red, white, and blue not only showed that the class of 1993 have school spirit, but they are also very patriotic. Even though our army day came next to the seniors army day, we stood out and were able to show the unity of our class. To top the week off, the JUNIORS really showed their spirit at the game.

Even though some thought we got the "raw end of the deal" or "nuts and bolts" as others put it, all in all, this year's spirit week has been one of the best. Second place is o.k., but watch out, next year, the class of 1993 will conquer all!!!



Jamie Farag and Charlie Albertalli, dressed up for Orange and Black day, show the true spirit of friendship that Spirit Week brings to Washington High.

The fiendish Irvington Boxer, otherwise known as Jeremy Montoya, leads his troops to Tak to capture the Washington spirit.

With mouths open wide and arms swinging in the air Brian Williams, Joel Sandoz, Todd Dutra, and Lisa Corrie howl with enthusiasm.

Spirit Week

Ethan Wilmert is ready for WW III in his gas mask on army day.

Leon Yu displays his army outfit to us. Wow, those are really huge bullets you have there Leon.

Tanda Murdica, Karin Hartkamp, Geneva Boutonscott, and Tera Krochak pose as Irvington men in the Junior skit.

The juniors are celebrating even though they suffered a horrible loss at tug-of-war.

Look's like their having lots of fun throwing pies and also getting hit by them.

Hank IN HOLLYWOOD

SENIOR

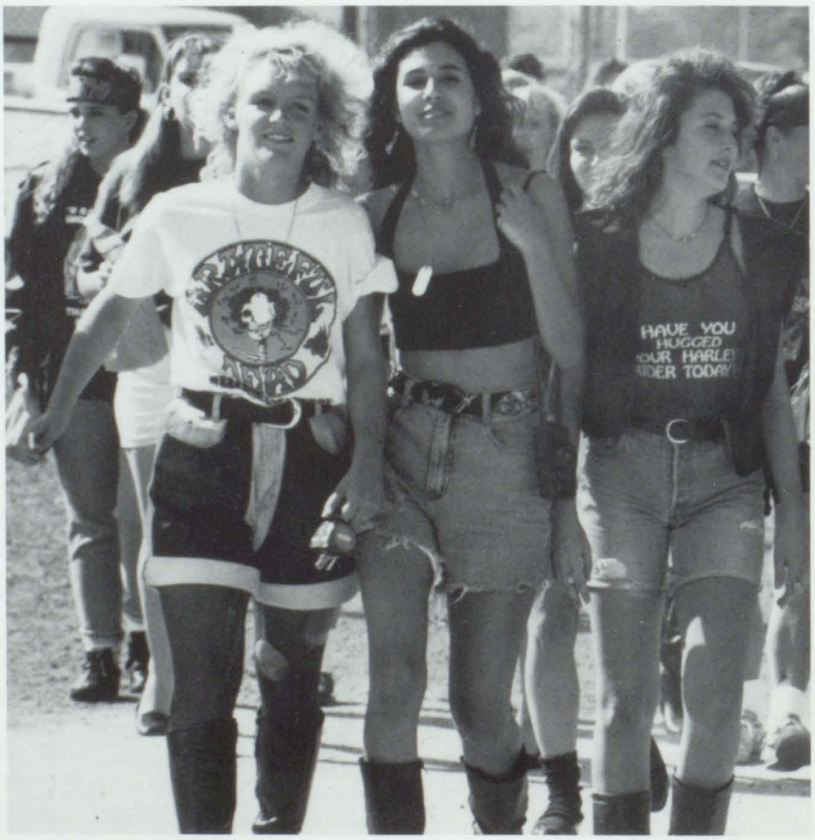
After a tough third place finish last year as Juniors, this year's Seniors were out for revenge. On Monday the Class of Ninety-Two marched through the school as Generals, Captains, and Privates for the traditional Senior Army Day. Tuesday's Seniors were very original with Harley Davidson Day. Tattoos began to appear along with black leather and bandanas, as they rode to school on their bikes. Wednesday was the Socrates look-alike contest, commonly known as Toga Day. This proved to be quite comfortable for the spirited Seniors who were air conditioned during the warm afternoon.

Thursday was Skit Day for Seniors, and this meant HANK IN HOLLYWOOD would be playing. The skit starts with inspector Hank Drebin in the Orange Club, where he falls in love with Husky Spirit. Knowing that the Huskies could not win the Homecoming Game without her, the Godfather Viking steals her and takes her to the Viking Ship. Inspector Hank Drebin winds through Hollywood looking for her. Hank goes through All My Seniors, In Living Color, and a beach party before finding Husky Spirit at the Viking Ship. Then he kills Indiana Jones, and alligator, Rocky Balboa, Darth Vader, and finally the Godfather Viking. Hank carries Husky Spirit off into the sunset.

This skit proved to be just what was needed to carry the Seniors on to victory in this year's Spirit Week.

Seniors break out in a sweaty craze when they discover the gorgeous, nude lady mudwrestlers in centerfield.



Joe Severson swaggers along the track while the women admire his Zeus-like physique.

A jubilant flock of energetic soldiers march on after an arduous day of demonstrating their Husky spirit.

Biker women at Washington? After parking their Harleys, Alisa Lorenzi, Gina Beagles, and Ami Windes strut their stuff on their way to the sophomore skit.

Spirit Week

Mike Fauver and Justin Wright tangle as Hank Drebin and Indiana Jones in the Senior Skit.

Men on Homecoming, (John Tam and David McCoy), show their Senior Spirit as fly girls, Katie Hadley, Tracy Jackson, and Jennifer Britto watch in amazement.

Joe Theriault and Angeleque Walsh give their tribute to Sonny and Cher as a beach party rages behind them.

HOMECOMING DANCE

"The gang's all here!"

Kathy Braia, David Rosa and Mario Sousa take a break from dancing.

Will Raby smiles as Kim Peterson finally agrees to a dance.

Judy Dang and Dexter Lat share the last dance together.

One of the biggest dances of each year is the Homecoming dance. This dance is special for everyone. It brings new memories, old memories, and WHS alumni. This is a night full of music, laughter, and fun as everyone reminisces about the years past and present. The music is great and no one can help tapping their feet to the beat. As with every dance, the Homecoming dance has its surprises. One of the most memorable is the announcement of Mr. Husky.

This year, the five finalist piled on stage one last time. In the next few minutes of heart-stopping tension, Mark Stewart was named Mr. Husky for 1991.

The Homecoming dance marks the end of a week of spirit week competition. It brings everyone together for one last night of fun before everything returns to normal.

"This is my bud!" says 1991 graduate Rodney Kidd of fellow graduate Sean Carmichael. George Emmett cheers on as his friend looks away.

Mark Stewart is congratulated as he is named Mr. Husky.

HOMECOMING GAME

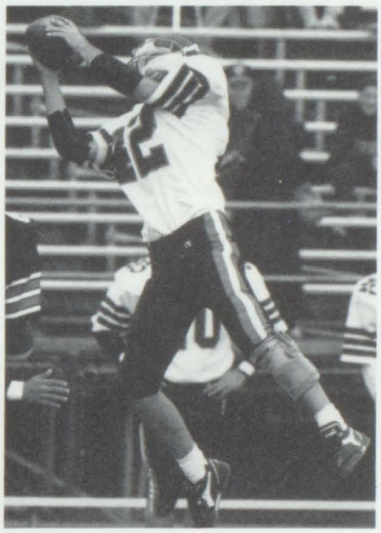
Jason Ready charges past the Viking defense.

"This ball is mine!" growls Marvin Love.

Homecoming Queen Nina Pestano is embraced by her sister Carolyn Pestano, former Homecoming Queen.



Jeremy Alter makes a jumping catch.

Lean to the left, lean to the right, stand up, sit down, FIGHT FIGHT FIGHT.

There goes the football team, tearing through another crash poster.

The Homecoming game is always exciting. There is suspense hanging in the air as everyone wonders who will win the game and who will be crowned Homecoming Queen. Everyone also awaits the announcement of the winners of spirit week.

This year WHS played against the Irvington Vikings. First Junior Varsity played and came away with another win. Then the Varsity game began. At half-time, the Huskies were in the lead. The festivities began and Homecoming Queen Nina Pestano was announced. The spirit week title went once again to the seniors!

The second half of the Varsity game came, WHS came close to a defeat, but the Huskies pulled ahead again to come away with a victory!

SADIE HAWKINS

Carrie Fincher is creating a new zombie dance, and is also apparently enjoying herself.

John Eads & Lauren Henderson have danced til they can't dance no more, and they become wallflowers as they take a breather.

Hey Belinda Ramos! Are you okay? You look a little crooked. Don't fall! Dexter Lat will hold you up.

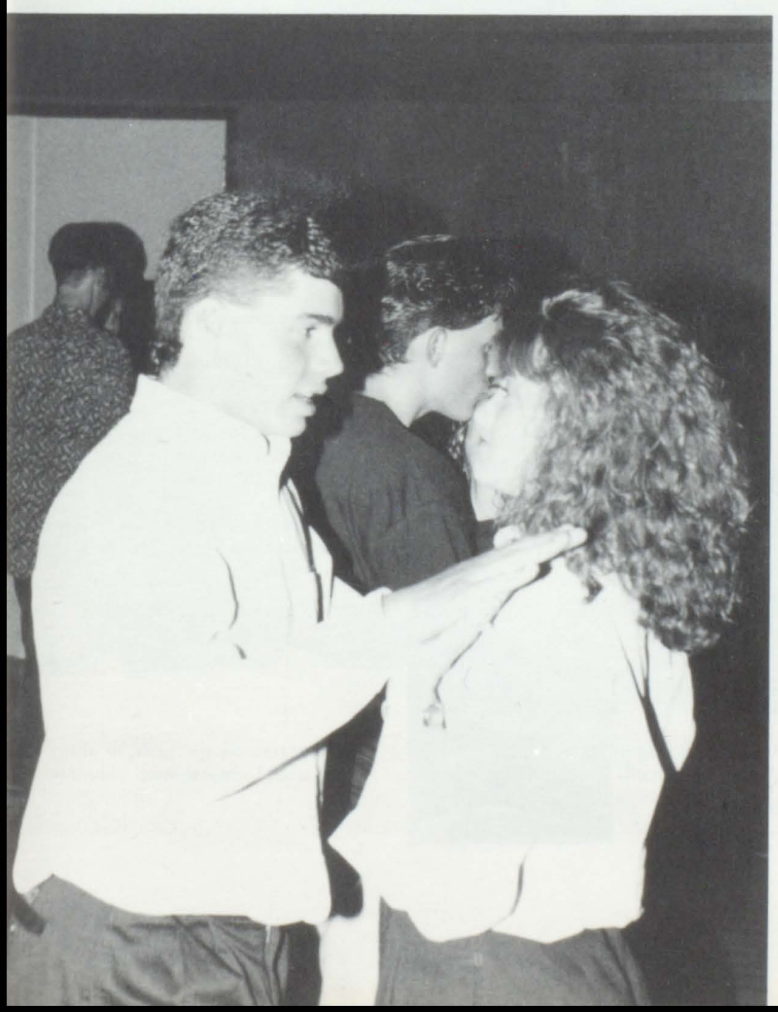
Jaime Hunt and Lloyd Zmeko share a slow dance while starring star-gazingly into each others eyes.

"Hey! Wow! Look at us!" Yelp Wynema Thruman, Richard Evans, Jennifer Mullins, John Rodriguez, Christina Brasil, and Phil Wartena as they take time out for a quick snapshot.

Garth Kimball and Valerie Stage are attracted to other sites as they check out other DISCO dancing moves.

Every year, as the Sadie Hawkins Dance approaches, you can notice the girls getting a little nervous and squirmy. The girls can finally understand what trauma and experiences the guys go through when they have to ask girls out on dates or to dances. For the Sadies, the girls are expected to ask the guys to the dance, and usually pay for the cost of matching outfits. Some say that half the problem is trying to agree on an outfit. There are so many styles and colors and so many shops to brouse at. And it's hard to keep a guy interested in shopping for long.

The actual dancing is fun but taking pictures is the best. What could be a better keepsake? It's the mile long line which barely inches to the camera and prop site that can produce tons of laughter and many o' conversations. This year about 70 couples showed up and some popular outfits were: jeans & jean shorts, Stussy wear, stripes, denim shirts, solid tee's, and tie dye shirts. In any case, you can always expect to have fun at a Sadie Hawkins dance and shopping around for that perfect ensemble.



Donald Quigley and Carrie McWilliams slow dance while looking eye to eye- OR are they really playing patty cakes?

Jenny Clifton and Charlie Albertalli try to have an intimate moment but fail to do so, as an intruder spoils the moment.

BRAIN BOWL

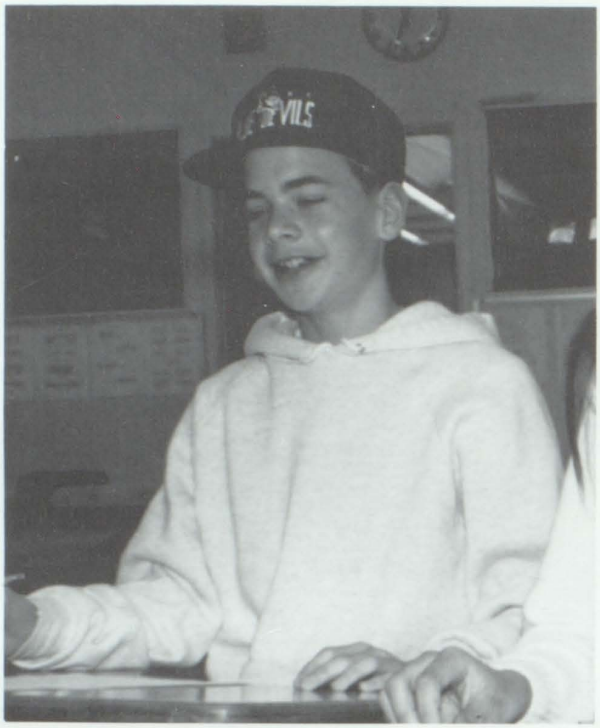
Freshman Steve Duke thinks, "Man I'm so smart I even amaze myself sometimes!"

Junior Jason Lowe shows his excitement cheering wildly after answering another question correctly!



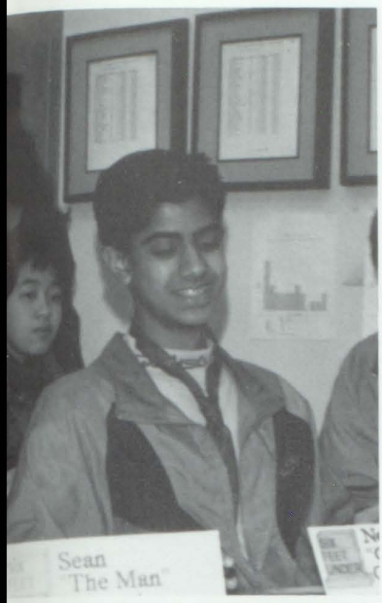
A little slow slapping his desk Leon Yu tries to get someones attention.

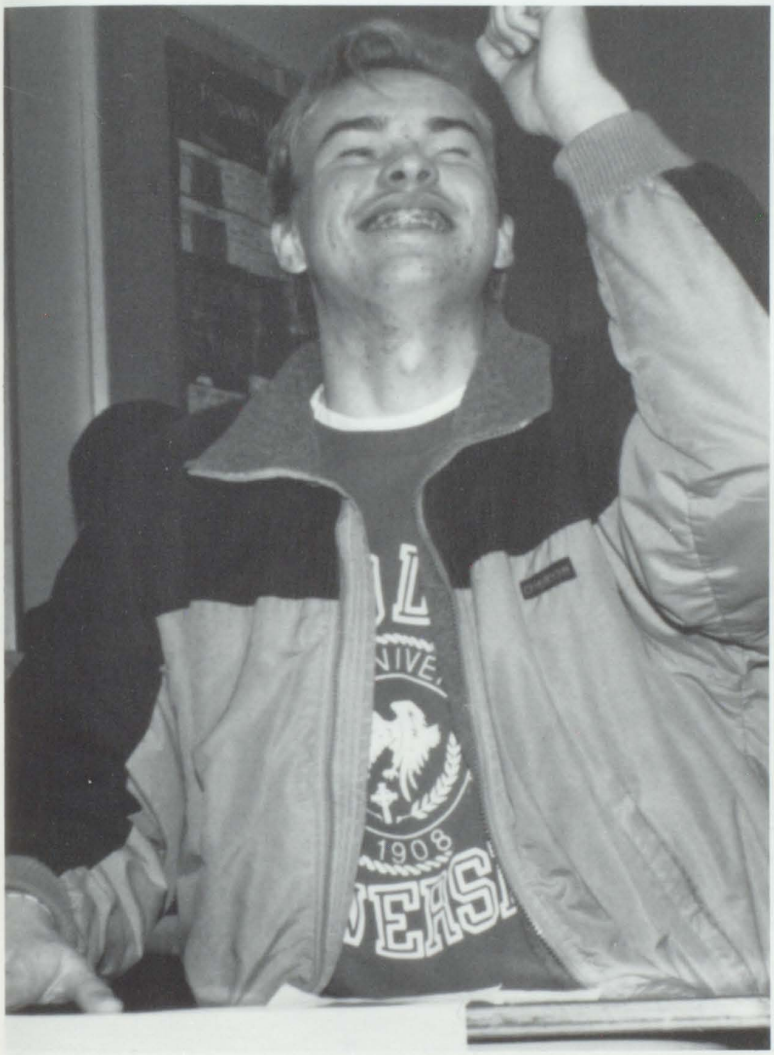
Marc Perkins, Michal Gregorini, and Jon Gouailhardou stare into space as they contemplate the answer.

Lauren Henderson looks away laughing after glancing at Steve Putt and realizing just how lost he really is!

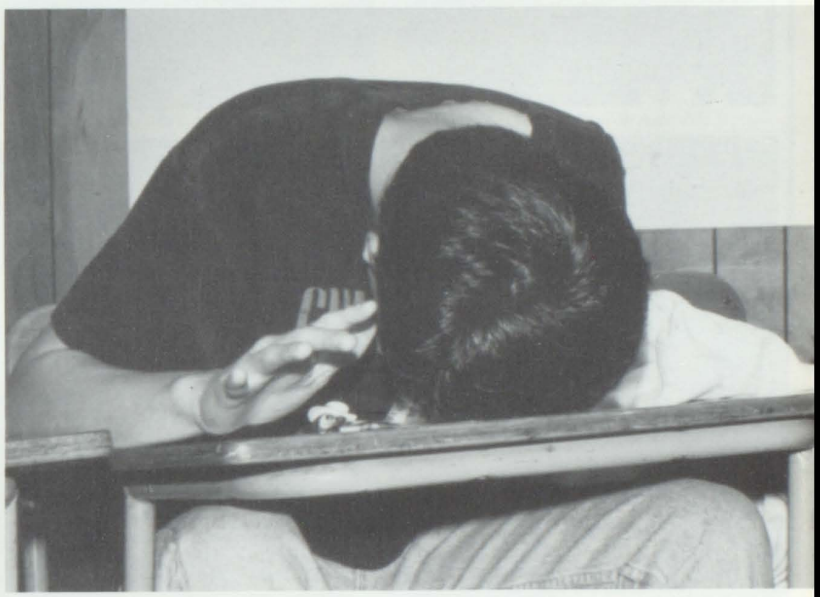
... and the winners are, Avani Patel, Jenny Meeds, Ethan Wimert, and Andy Stonas of Sapienti Sat.

Clad in their thinking neckties, Chris Walsh, Sean Howarth, and Neil Chudgar anticipate an easy match.





The pride of winning possesses Washington's very own Jeremy Littau.



Quick reflexes is an important part of success in Brain Bowl. Darren Alt thinks it's faster if he slaps in with his head.

"Time" yells the mediator before anyone has had a chance to come up with the answer! The score remains tied at 32 to 32 halfway into the match making the next 20 point question even more important! This was the intense scene occuring during a few of the competitions taking place during Brain Bowl Competition was held during the months of February and March in the science wing. Teams bearing names such as Cranial Enema Schmegma Pi, and Six Feet Under each battled it out in efforts to prove their own intellectual superiority. They started out in a field of 16 teams and were narrowed down after weeks of rigorous competition to the 4 best teams. Four members from each team answered questions on every subject ranging from difficult mathematcial problems to world happenings. Some of the questions answered by some of the best brainiacs were "What is the average rainfall in the Amazon basin?", and "Who was the first European to see the Pacific Ocean?" After all the fierce brain straining done by all participants the winners of Sapienti Sat came shining through!

BLEACHER BUMS

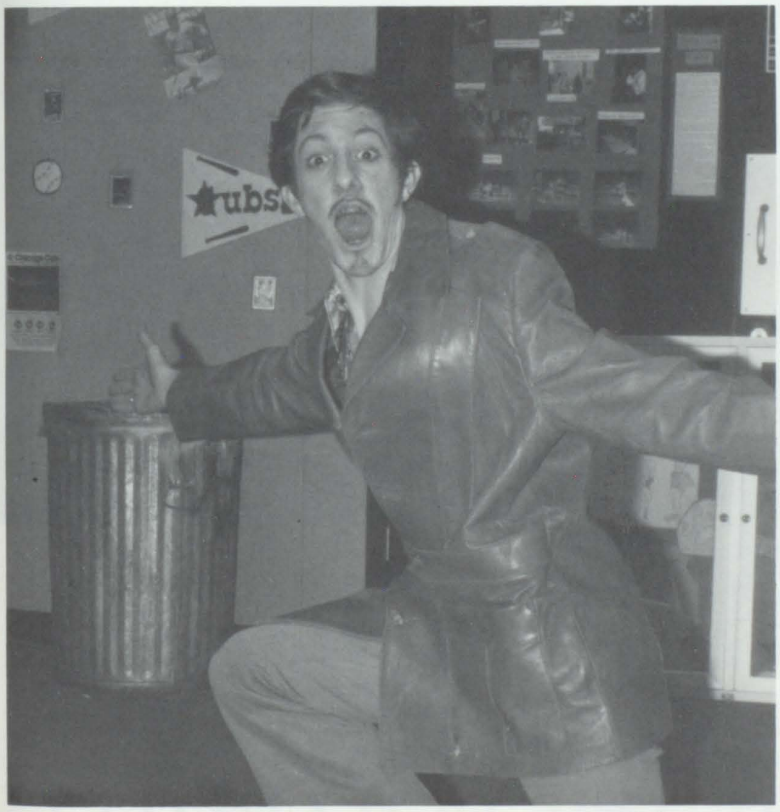
Cathy Wright, drama advisor, is all smile after the production on closing night. The cast has presented to her a cake, flowers, and an authentic "Bleacher Bums" sweatshirt in appreciation of her energetic support.

"All this to sit in Wrigley Field to watch God's own game on his own green grass?" thinks Nabil Ahmed.

What was that line again? Oh yeah! — "Finger in the air-Ayyyyy!" says Nicole Branco.

We know you're cute, Brian, but you don't have to flaunt it.

Cathy Wright, Nicole Branco, Oasey Flanagen, Griselda Cervantes, Jennifer Mullins, Michael Wright, Meredith Saunders, Melisa Guzman, Nabil Ahmed, Brian Branco, Marisela Cervantes, Mariam Shair, Amy Fitch, Brad Young, Mark Duncanson, Lewis Eck, David Reno, Brady Taylor, Duane White, Anthony Manha, Sonny Desai



"There's no business like show business," sings Brady Taylor.

Here is the house and assistant managers, Mari Cervantes and Melisa Guzman, but where is the stage manager? Could she be doing her job?

To actually make a play out of a baseball game is very remarkable, but to make a play out of the people in the stands? What a concept! The play was centered around Cub fans watching the game from the bleachers. In the play, there was everything from betting to venders in the isles. The intermission, also known as the seventh inning stretch, was creative, and having popcorn and peanuts sold by the screaming venders was one of the best ideas ever. The play put on by the advanced drama students was one of the best plays ever put on by Washington High School.

The actors and actresses portrayed many different characters. The characters included Zig and his wife Rose, Marvin-a betaholic, a young cheerleader, a blind man, a sun worshipping girl, a classic nerd, and a young man there to watch the game and to keep score. The actors and actresses were the best possible, and the enthusiastic venders added a very special touch. The play was a great success and showed the wonderful ability of the drama department.

Each day of the year passes with events coming and going. In the 1991-92 school year, the days flew by, but left us with traces of both celebratory and tragic situation. In the beginning of the year, several events occurred that will stay with us for a long time.

We remember Mike Powell's victorious jump that outdistanced even Carl Lewis. We remember the tragic story of Kimberly Bergalis, the woman who contracted the HIV Virus from her dentist. We can't forget how the Minnesota Twins outplayed the Atlanta Braves to come through and win the World Series. Arnold Schwarzenegger's latest blockbuster movie, "Terminator 2," had scenes filmed in a Fremont industrial building.

Tragedy and victory seesawed with each other throughout the year as time took its toll on everyone. We saw the deaths of Michael Landon, Bill Graham, and Dr. Seuss. We watched the harrowing confrontation between Anita Hill and Clarence Thomas. We also saw the collapse of the Soviet Union, and we watched a new form of government

As the recession continued to worsen a devastating fire rampaged through the Oakland hills. The fire was aided by fairly hot weather and shifting wind patterns. Seven scientists entered Biosphere II, a self-contained glass-domed environment for two years. William Kennedy-Smith was acquitted of charges of a rape that allegedly occurred at the Kennedy Compound. Gay rights was a hot topic after Governor Wilson vetoed a gay rights bill that would have outlawed job discrimination based on sexual orientation. A meeting will be held by the UN Conference on Environment and Development in Rio de Janeiro. Environmental artist Christo set up over 1000 yellow umbrellas in Southern California off of interstate 5. Singer Axl Rose was charged with inciting a riot at a Gun's & Roses concert, which resulted in several injuries to fans and damage to the arena. Oliver Stone's controversial "J.F.K." raised questions about the details of the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Mount Pinatubo, a volcano in the Philippines, erupted spreading volcanic ash everywhere. This caused the closing of an American military base. Finally, NBA superstar Earvin "Magic" Johnson, an idol to many adoring fans, contracted the AIDS virus, and retired from professional basketball.

The great circle of time makes puppets of us all. From Jefferey Dahmer to Liz Taylor's eighth trip down the aisle, from the Mike Tyson rape trial to the Rodney King beating, from George Bush vomiting and fainting in Japan, to ex-KKK Grand Wizard David Duke running for president, the soap opera of life and death was acted out. However, along with the scandals came dreams of hope. Fremont's Kristi Yamaguchi winning a gold medal at the Albertville Olympics, the Redskins winning Super Bowl XXIX, and Terry Anderson finally being reunited with his family after seven years. Captives were released. Blondie started her own business and went to work, to the shock of the nation, and a 4000-year-old man was unburied from the Tyrolean Alps. And of course, there was money to be made even as the nation slipped deeper into recession; just ask Macaulay Culkin, a child millionaire, thanks to the success of "Home Alone" and "My Girl." And there was more money to made. Annette Benning and Warren Beatty grabbed a couple of Oscar nominations and a baby, and a fortune from the film "Bugsy," and "Beauty and the Beast" was nominated for an Oscar. But great things succumb, as the U.S. hockey team did in the Olympics.

Once Again For The Very First Time

101

On the first day of school, the freshmen are seen roaming the halls, wondering where their next period is. As the new people on campus, they are too shy to ask any upperclassmen, but they eventually figure it out. Then comes spirit week. The freshmen run around trying to figure out what to do, and once again, they place last. Finally, by the end of the year, the Freshmen class feels like it belongs and they are ready to be promoted to the status to Sophomores.

As school starts for the Sophomores, they feel like nothing can stop them. Sophomores actually have a chance to compete in spirit week now, and the class of 1994 only placed third in this year's competition. The almighty Drivers License is the most important goal a sophomore can have. As they pull themselves out of bed early every morning for a whole quarter, or drive around in a car with a big, bright "STUDENT DRIVER" sign on it, they only have one thing in mind — getting that shiny piece of plastic with their picture on it. By the end of the year, the Sophomore class has matured to the point where they are ready to become Juniors.

As a Junior, you have many things to worry about. This is the most important year as far as colleges are concerned, and the grades have to stay high. The SAT, ACT, and Achievement Tests are another point of stress for the Juniors. But in between it all, there are a lot of happy times, and a lot of chances to build new memories. The Junior Prom is something that all Juniors look forward to. As prom time comes, the girls scurry around trying to find the perfect dress, and the guys are out renting a tux and making reservations. Everyone hopes that prom night will go perfectly and it usually does. As the year ends, plans for the summer are made with the knowledge that the next time they come to school, the Class of 1993 will be SENIORS!

Seniors come back once again to wait out one more year. But they also make the most of their last year together. The Senior Picnic, Breakfast, Fling, and Ball are some of the activities that keep the Class of 1992 going strong while bringing them closer together. Of course, there is a serious side to being a Senior. Many will take the SAT's again, and nearly everyone faces the task of applying to college in the fall. But getting that college acceptance letter back in the spring and then graduating make the last four years well worth it. But as they move on, they will always be Huskies.

FRESHMAN

For any incoming freshman, the first day of high school is both the most exciting and the most frightening. Unsure of what the new environment will be like, each member of the class of 1995, like all of those before them, jumped into their newfound challenge head on and began to push their way through the crowds in the hall.

Looking back at the year we see that each event that takes place is a milestone which marks the growth of the youngest of the Huskies. From Spirit Week, to the freshman bar-be-que, to the Sadies Dance, to graduation the class has grown individually and as a whole. Now that the year is coming to a close and the class of 1995 has finally found its place at Washington it is time to move on to the realm of Sophomoredome and big lockers.

Sophomore '94

This year we got off to a terrific start. During Spirit Week, we let everyor know who the class of 1994 was, as we proved to be pups no longer. Th sophomore skit was a dynamite success. Now that our Winter Ball has been success, we hope that all future dances will be also. We look toward our future, being juniors. In the upcoming years our spirit and pride only has room become greater, maybe this is because the class of 1994 . . . IS THE BEST!

Juniors '93

With eager smiles of anticipation the class of 1993 flooded the parking lot, flashing their very own cars and new driver's licenses acquired over the summer. And why not smile? Now upperclassmen, the Juniors have lots of Husky pride and fun to look forward to in Powderpuff and the Junior Prom. Remember, however to be cautious about your GPA and look out because the SAT's are coming up and college is watching you.

JUNIOR VICTORY! Roused to a cheering frenzy the class of 1993 met the Seniors in stiff competition during Spirit Week. Last year, despite many setbacks, they beat the class of '92 to claim the number two spot. Coming in second again this year they once again proved their Husky pride. They still have next year to shoot for #1 as the first Senior class to use the new gym.

1992 SENIOR CLASS

Wherever we go, whoever we meet along the way, there is always a point where we have to say goodbye. So it appears that we have reached that point. Four years we have spent together, continually learning more about ourselves along the way. It still only seems like yesterday that we were nervous and apprehensive freshmen, with a long road ahead of us. Time moved with phenomenal speed, and I hope each of you can say that you took the time to stop and observe the atmosphere around you.

Never again will there arise a Class of 1992. We were the class that witnessed it all. Spirit Week in the North Gym, its closing, its destruction, and the creation of a new gym that will, hopefully, furnish future classes with the same sense of tradition. We are the 101st graduating class- we didn't end a century, we began one. It's beginnings that life is all about, and we are all moving on to our new beginnings. The memories of Spirit Week, Washington football games, the North and South gyms, Winter Balls, Prom night, and the friends we made along the way will always find home in the hearts of everyone of us. So with our goodbyes, I simply ask one favor- that you will all hold close the pride of being a Husky and a part of the class of 1992.

CLASS OF 1992

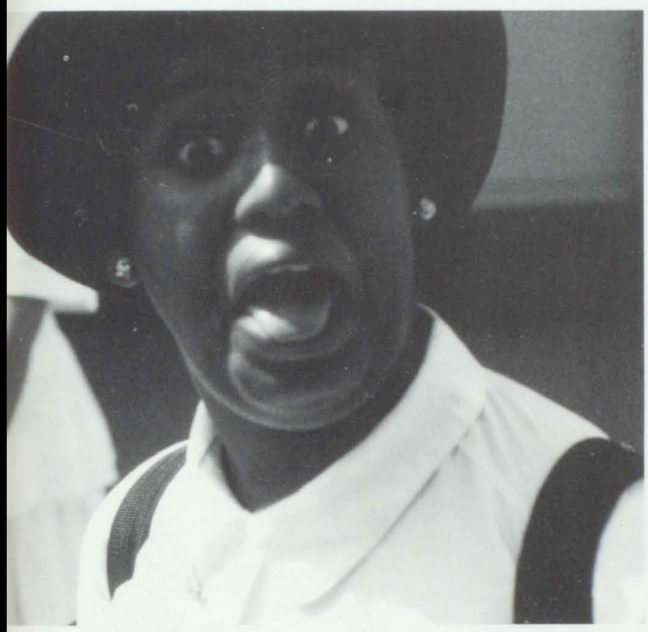
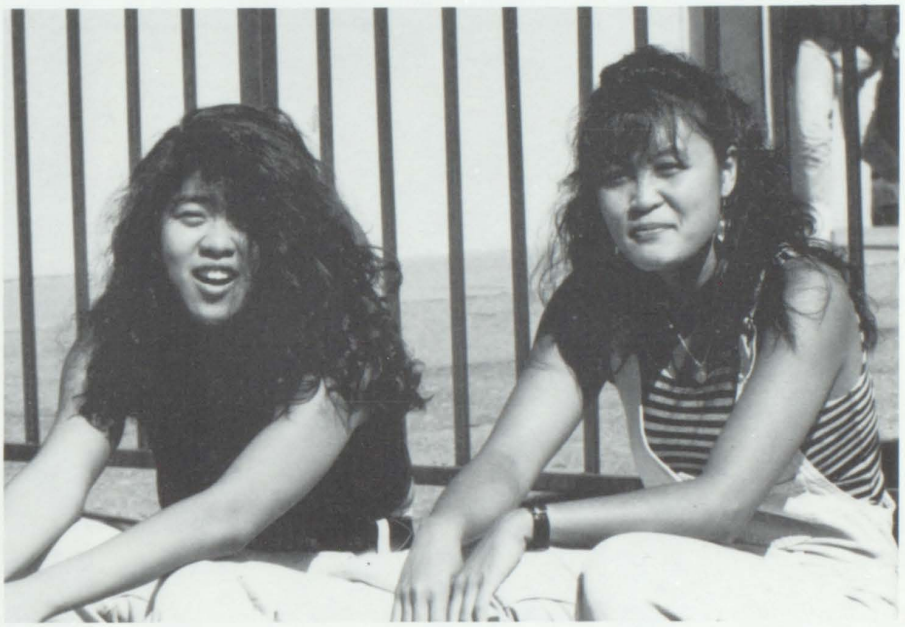
John Dujmovic and Nathan Delgado are serious about this Senior Auction thing as they bask on the side waiting for the outcome.

Senior Auction poses this question, "How much would you pay to have a slave for the day?" Sara Lujan and Katie Hadley are wondering the same thing.

Hey Sitome (Mebrahtu), you better stop making them funny faces! Like mom told you, your face might stick that way.





Elizabeth Han and Rosario Canotal take a timeout from classes to catch up on the latest of gossip.

Senior Brian Parody making friends at the attendance window with Mrs. Silva.

"And my, what beautiful expressions you have!" Fe Batara and Debbie Festejo show us their true sides.

SENIOR

"COWABUNGA!" yelps Aaron LaFar as he catches air on the water slide.

Down goes Larry Walker at lightning speed with fear and terror on his face.

The Senior picnic was a time for friends to get together and have a good time like Wendy Gant, Kirsten Driesbock, Karrie Swenson, and Kelly Ledgewood.

Happily floating down the Endless River are Kelly Cottingham, Lisa Fox, Amanda Wiegand, Matt Garrity, and Amy Pyles.

PICNIC

Nabil Ahmed apprehensively eyes the end of the fall and prepares to take a deep plunge into the unknown.

It's a bird, It's a plane, No . . . It's Mark Gelfuso levitating above the water.

It's Lori Bowers and Jen Damas sporting the new look of the season.

On September 27, 1991 the Senior class had its first activity of the year. Raging Waters in San Jose entertained 200 eager Washington seniors with water slides, innertube rides, and plenty of grass areas for naps. The weather was so beautiful that people in Minnesota would drool with envy. The sun was shining, the water was perfectly cool, and nothing could have been better than spending a day away from school with all your classmates at Raging Waters! Fortunately it wasn't so crowded and the lines weren't long. Being together enjoying the day united our class more and gave us a sense of being seniors finally! Three years of envying the seniors and wishing that we were old enough have gone by and now it was our turn. The Senior Picnic was just the beginning of a year full of lasting memories and precious moments for each and every senior that went. The fun has just begun!

SENIOR

Brian McFeely's senior army outfit comes complete with camouflage, hard hat, vegetation, war paint, and all-purpose duct tape.

Too lazy to get dressed, seniors rally in the bed sheets they slept in at the freshmen skit.

"92 POWER!" exclaims Bi Nah in her keen orange and black outfit.

"Where's the rally?" inquires Randa Hagan holding her ever-so spirited sign.

SKIT

"Take me away big boy!" yells sensuous Angela Burns to hunky Matt Severson.

Erin Todd, Erinn Kearney, and Brit Lewis guard the Godfather (Bryan Gebhardt) as he consults his assailants Jason Ramos, Aaron LaFar, and Masood Sarwari.

Ami Windes hits a low key as Beth Rautiola, Christina Sandoval, Jenny Malysiak, Katie Ross, Sabrina Afifi, and Emily Thomas prepare to strut their stuff.

Like past years the seniors took first place in the Spirit Week competition. The class came up with some very creative days including army, Harley, toga, skit, and orange and black day. The Senior's pride emanated throughout the school with their chants and rallies. On any given day one could hear the famous "S . . . S.E. . . . S.E.N.I.O.R.S. . . ." bursting from the mouths of the senior class.

In the Senior Skit we saw Hank driven mad with love by the Spirit Lady. She is then stolen by the evil Viking Godfather. Our fearless Hank must then travel throughout Hollywood to rescue his love. On his journey he encounters many obstacles including a sensual but wicked actress, a production of In Living Color, Indiana Jones, Sonny and Cher, Darth Vader, and various others. In the end Hank saves the Spirit Lady and the spirit of Washington High is protected once again.

MATT GARRITY

As I sat on the edge of a high cliff, and gazed into the great endless blue, I watched a bird soar through the sky. As it circled above, I thought, "Oh how I yearn to fly." For twelve years I have tried to learn, but have only received these chains that bind me. Now my wings are ready to be set free. My mind and soul are ready to fly. love, MATT GARRITY

To all those who'll understand;
Listen, we're all in pain
But that's just what comes with having eyes and ears
But just remember one thing
It can't get any worse
It can only get better
H.S. is the bottom
Being a teenager sucks
But that's the point
Surviving is the whole point.
SINCERELY, LAURA CUELLAR & AMY PARHIALA

Ode from the editors:

In the past year of working on the yearbook together, we've learned the importance of communication, organization, leadership, and responsibility. It also has given us the opportunity to metamorphose into insomniacs before each pressing deadline. To all those in class who have made this possible: Fe, Adam, Lorrie, Amy C., Judy, Debbie, Amy F., Lisa, Jenise, Alex, George, David, Scott, Bonnie, Nina, Pinki, Jason, Emily, Joe, Matt, Mark, and Frank; we thank you for your opinions, dedication, and tolerance of our indecisiveness throughout the year. We would like to extend our personal gratitude to the following: Bonnie Nishihara for the use of your Canon AE-1 camera and telephoto lens for the entire year, Jason Ramos for your incredible artistic gift that gave life to the little guy in the corner (with the help of Jennifer's modeling ability), The Hacket for the use of Wilma and Dino, The Argus for sharing your note pads of school sports' scores, Martin Handford Publishing for releasing Copywrite consent for our use of "Where's Waldo," Dave Mamlin for unlocking P7 on Friday afternoons when we needed something, Dee Vis for all your smiles and help, Steve Mongeni for having faith in us, and Fred Brower for your guidance. Amy and Frank, we wish you the best of luck as editors in 1992-1993. As editors of the Washingtonian 1991-1992 we hope this book brings back cherished memories in the years to come.

Disclaimer: If contents of this book are found offensive, the yearbook staff offers their deepest regrets.
